BOARD RESCINDS ALL SPRINKLING AWARDS; TO CALL FOR NEW BIDS

HARDING TELLS OF ECONOMIC SUCCESS

Inform Business Meeting Government Receipts Will Pass Expenditures This Year.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Announcing prospects of a surplus of governmental receipts over expenditures this year as a result of economies in administration, President Harding, speaking today at the second business meeting of the Government, declared he doubted "if any government in the world has made a more persistent and conscientious endeavor to cut down its expenditures and institute economies and restore sane and normal ways again."
The President and Director Dawes of the budget, who followed him, announced to the meeting, composed of more than a thousand Government officials, that direct savings of $32-600,000 and indirect savings of more than $104,000,000 has been accomplished in less than six months through the operation alone of the Budget Bureau and co-ordinating agencies.

Mr. Harding expressed the further opinion that the efforts on the part of the Government toward economy had been reflected among the people at large.

Praises Budget.

"I cannot but feel," he said, "that the Government has in the budget organization set an example of care and thrift that has helped greatly to make saving fashionable. If to some extent the Government has been a leader in so praiseworthy a cause, we ought all to be gratified to have had a part in the affair. Much of the extravagance of the Government has been due to a lack of sense of individual responsibility, and the same is true in the corporate business and the private affairs of the people. If our efforts here shall set a standard and inspire an ambition for greater economies and higher efficiency, we shall have served not only the Government, but the whole public, particularly well. Perhaps our example will be of service to the world."

The President reiterated his opposition to deficiency appropriations and made a plea for an understanding among officials of the Government that the common good, not departmental advantage, is the end at which all of us must aim.

Discussing the prospects of a surplus instead of a deficit as was generally expected, Mr. Harding announced for a continuation of the "careful and painstaking effort which has been made continuously during the first half of the year," and added:

SAYS HOTEL MUTTON CHOP COSTS MORE THAN SHEEP IN COLORADO

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The campaign for enactment of a co-operative marketing law was opened yesterday in the Senate by Senator Kellogg, Republican, Minnesota.

The need of agricultural relief was illustrated by Senator Kellogg with data which he claimed showed that farmers have not equally profited with others as a result of price advances.

More is paid for a mutton chop in any hotel, Senator Kellogg said, than for a sheep in Colorado, and apples often run in orchards when the fruit commands high prices in the city.

Action Taken After Testi- mony at Hearing Indicates Some Bids Were Unrea- sonably High—Pool of In- terests Denied by Bidders.

BANK COLLECTED FOR LAST YEAR'S WORK

Claims of All Contractors Were Assigned to Chippe- wa Institution, of Which Eyerann, Sprinkling Contractor, Is President.

The Board of Public Service this afternoon decided to reject all the bids for city sprinkling contracts, thus rescinding its action of last Tuesday, when it voted to award the contracts for the 42 sprinkling districts, to the lowest bidders for the various districts, seven firms and individuals in all.

The board took its latest action after hearing statements, at a special meeting this morning, which convinced it that the price charged by this year's lowest bidders, an average of $534.34 a mile throughout the city, or 15 per cent more than last year's price, was unreasonably high.

Shortly after this action was taken by the board, it developed, through inquiry made by a Post-Dispatch reporter in the Controller's office, that the holders of last year's district sprinkling contracts assigned their claims against the city to the Chip-ewa Bank, of which Gottlieb Eyer-mann, contractor, is president, and that all the money paid for sprinkling was collected from the city by the bank.

This fact was not known to the Board of Public Service. The board, at its hearing this morning, made some inquiry as to reports that the sprinkling contractors had paid their receipts into a pool, for proration by districts, so that those who had to make low bids in competitive districts were reimbursed from the excess profits made by others in noncompetitive districts. At the hearing, no evidence as to this was brought out.

Last Year's Vouchers.
Examinations of the vouchers in the Comptroller's office, for the payments made by the city on last year's sprinkling contracts, showed that the following amounts, composing the entire $328,885 paid by the city for sprinkling in 1921, were collected by the Chipewa Bank from the city, after the contractors had assigned their claims to the bank: Eyerann Contracting Co., 19 districts, $32,408.

P. A. Stiers, 10 districts, $75,883.
John Fabric, 11 districts, $89,720.
John McMahon, 8 districts, $64,893.
P. C. Pollman, 2 districts, $12,041.
Tim Cavanaugh, 1 district, $39,842.

Opinion First Obtained.
Before its vote to reject all the bids submitted Jan. 24, the board obtained an opinion from Assistant City Counselor Haid, to the effect that it had a right to do so. Gottlieb Eyerann, one of the contractors, notified the board at the morning session that he had been advised that the contracts had been legally awarded and that the board could not rescind its action. Haid, however, said the contracts were not binding on the city until approved by the Comptroller.

The board's action was taken after Director Fisk of the Department of Streets and Sewers had submitted a written recommendation that the bids be rejected. Fisk recommended, before Tuesday's meeting, that the lowest bids of Jan. 24 be accepted. "I have given this matter further consideration," he said in his letter today, "and I am of the opinion that the city can obtain lower prices by rejecting the bids, and again advertising for bids." He therefore recommended a reconsid-eration and rejection.

The board will announce, within a short time, the time for receiving new bids. As the advertisement must be published in three successive

EDITOR PASSES THE BUCK TO READER ON NEWS OF CRIME

Detroit Journalist Says Public Is at Fault Because of Way It Reads.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—The reason there is a prevalent belief that newspapers print a great quantity of crime items is the way in which the average newspaper reader reads a newspaper, Lee A. White, editorial executive of the Detroit News, said last night, in an address before the Medill School of Journalism.

This is the way, according to Mr.
White:
"Column one, disarmament conference. The reader, um, um, um, conference, um, um, um, Japan, um, um, Hughes, um, um, Shantung, um, um, Finished.
"Column two, Silliman case, no ums. Close attention. Occasional murmur of 'can you beat that?'
um, reader says he must scan the column because the case is a 'sociological document.' Another merely says it is 'hot stuff.' Both skip nary a word.

"Column three, the farmer bloc in Congress. The reader, um, um, um, Well, I know what I think of farmers." Finished.

"Column four, murder. The reader: 'Say, here's mystery in real life.
Why, it's as good as a novel.' No further sound from him for 12 minutes. Finished.

"Column five, orchestra deficit.
Orchestra must be saved. The reader: 'Is that so?' Well, let somebody save it, then." Finished.

By that time, Mr. White said, the reader turns hurriedly to the sport page and, after having scanned his rest, sleeps his slumbers disturbed, however, by the thought of the crime
the newspapers print.

CHARGES DRY SQUAD RAIDED SYNAGOGUE DURING PRAYER

Los Angeles Rabbi Complains to Prohibition Headquarters; He Is Said to Have Sold Wine.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—Rabbi Wolf E. Goldberg, of Los Angeles complained in a letter received at prohibition headquarters here that a squad of 15 prohibition agents raided
his synagogue while the congregation was at prayer and seized a quantity of sacramental wine, it became known today.

E. H. Wheeler, prohibition deputy at Los Angeles, reported that Goldberg had sold wine to a woman at prohibition headquarters here that a squad of 15 prohibition agents raided
his synagogue while the congregation was at prayer and seized a quan-

SIX SUBMARINES REJECTED FOR FAULTY CONSTRUCTION

Two Ordered on 6000-Mile Journey
From California to Connecticut Without Convoy.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 3.—Six of the latest types of submarines, the S-30 to S-35, inclusive, have been rejected by the Navy Department on account of faulty construction, it was announced here today by Pacific fleet officials. The S-30 and the S-33 have been ordered to start, without convoy, March 15, to New London, Conn., for repairs. This will be the first time submarines have attempted the 6000-mile voyage without a convoy, according to navy officials.

CARDINALS FAIL TO SELECT POPE ON FOUR BALLOTS

Voting Begun by Conclave of Sacred College; 53 Members Present, One of Whom Has Influenza.

FOUR BALLOTS A DAY DECIDED UPON

First One Test of Sentiment; Long Contest Not Expected; Vote Results to Be Withheld.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 3.—The third and fourth ballots were taken by the conclave of the Sacred College this evening in an effort to choose a successor to Pope Benedict. There was no choice, however, on either ballot.

The voting was begun today. Two ballots had been taken up to 1 o'clock.

When 53 members of the Sacred College assembled in the historic Sistine Chapel to cast their ballots the doors of the Vatican had been closed since yesterday with centuries-old ceremony to remain shut until the election of a new pontiff. Cardinal Marini, who has influenza, was taken into the Vatican before the doors were closed. It had been thought he would be unable to attend.

When the voting began today a program of four ballots daily, instead of two as has been the rule, had been decided upon, it is learned.

People Watching the Smoke.
People congregated outside St.
Peter's early today to watch for the number of issue of the successive ballots by the customary white burling.

Two sacks of straw were provided to be used to color the smoke of the burning voting papers, dark smoke to indicate to the crowds watching the chimney no election and light smoke a new Pope.

The first vote was expected to be merely in the nature of a test of the drift of sentiment. Progress after that, however, has been expected to be fairly rapid. Cardinal Gaspari and others having indicated their belief that the conclave would not be long lived.

Prince Chigi, marshal of the conclave, and Cardinal Gaspari, the camerlengo or acting head of the church, have taken precautions to prevent the results of the various ballots from leaking out before the end of the conclave.

The need for this was shown yesterday, when it was reported that a newspaper correspondent had virtually closed arrangements with a waiter to take over his place in an effort to gain first knowledge of the proceedings.

Ceremony of Locking Up the Sacred College Yesterday.
Majestic stateliness attended the solemn ceremony in the Vatican yesterday of the Sacred College, comprising for the moment 53 Cardinals.
Every detail of the sacred rites was observed, and although the time used for the closing in of the Cardinals was 3:30 in the afternoon, so long was the ceremonial that darkness had descended before the doors were finally barred and bolted, and the preliminaries were completed for the election of a new pontiff.

The 53 Cardinals present in Rome are now in the Vatican. Even Cardinal Marini, who is suffering from influenza, was conveyed there. He remained in bed, however, resting preparatory to the work when the first ballot would be taken.

At the huge bronze doors surveillance of those passing within was of the strictest nature. A giant German-Swiss sergeant of the guards allowed nobody to enter unless provided with a white pass, issued by Prince Chigi.

The conclave's isolation was carried out with full ceremonial.
Shortly after lunch, the Cardinals met in the Pauline chapel, where "Veni, Creator," was sung; a procession then formed, passing through the Sala Regia to the Sistine chapel, where the hymn was concluded.

Prince Chigi had meanwhile left his official residence and proceeded to the major-domo's apartment, where he was admitted into the presence of the Cardinals. There, with his staff, he took the oath to maintain secrecy and the absolute

MAN STRANGELY SLAIN AT GARAGE IN REAR OF HOME

Samuel Patti Fatally Wounded With Shotgun
When Putting Auto Away;
Police Without Clue.

HIS PARTNER HELD FOR QUESTIONING

Wife Says He Had Premoni-tion of Attack—Had Frequently Signed Bonds for Italians.

The police are without a tangible clue, even as to the motive, in the mysterious murder of Samuel Patti, 37 years old, of 6712 Columbia avenue, who died at 11:30 last night in an ambulance on the way to the city hospital, from shotgun wounds inflicted 15 minutes before, when he was putting his automobile in his garage in the rear of his home.

Patti, for the last six months, had a premonition that he was to be attacked. He carried an automatic pistol in his automobile for protection and had warned his wife that in the event he did not return to the house immediately after putting up his automobile at night she was to investigate.

Robbery Not the Motive.
Police are convinced that robbery was not intended. Patti's personal property, including $7.46 and a watch and chain, was intact.

Patti's residence, a one-story brick,
is on the south side of Columbia avenue. A north and south alley extends along the rear of the house.
Patti's garage, built by his father,
is on the south side of the alley.

Patti drove into the alley to a point about 15 feet from the garage, and evidently was shot just after he had opened the garage door, as his body, lying face downward, was at the doorway, the head even with the door and the feet toward the alley.

Across the alley is a picket fence running from the street to a point opposite the garage door. The shots were fired either from behind the fence or from the vacant lot to the south. The fact that one of the shots went through a window on the south side of the garage and then struck the window of the third house east of the Patti home indicates that the shots were fired from the lot, which is directly southwest of where Patti stood. However, a bramble bush recently trampled indicated that the shots might have been fired from behind the fence.

It appears that a 16-gauge shotgun, loaded with homemade slugs larger than buckshot, was used. Shell was found in the yard indicated the size of the weapon. It probably was a double-barreled gun, as the shots were fired almost simultaneously.

Three slugs penetrated the top of Patti's head, and one entered his back below the right shoulder.

Responded to Telephone Call.
Patti had left home in his automobile at about 8:20 p. m., in response to a telephone message from a man. Mrs. Patti, who had answered the telephone, did not recognize the man's voice, but she later heard her husband say: "All right, I'll be down right away." When he departed with his wife he would be back in a few minutes.

Tracing Patti's movements from the time he left home last night until his return, detectives learned that he went to a grocery a few blocks away, where he took an order for a side of beef, and from there to a poolroom at Cooper street and Wilson avenue, where he remained until about 11 p. m., when he started home.

Shortly after 11 p. m., Mrs. Patti heard the automobile on the driveway at the side of the house. She went to the basement and switched on the garage light and then unlocked the kitchen door. She was about to return to bed when she heard two explosions, but attributed the sound to the backing of an automobile.

Neighbors Attracted by Cries.
She became uneasy a few minutes later when her husband failed to come into the house, and following the instruction he previously had given to her, went to the back porch and called him several times.
Her cries attracted neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Horton of 5708 Columbia avenue, attracted by Mrs. Patti's cries, ran to the Patti home and with Mrs. Patti went to

POLICEMAN SHOTS BROTHER WHO TRIED TO FREE CAPTIVE

Decorah (Ia.) Officer Fires Into Crowd Attempting to Release Intoxicated Man.

By the Associated Press.
DECORAH, Ia., Feb. 3.—Alfred Dotseth, 39 years old, was shot and fatally wounded late last night by his brother, Matt Dotseth, a police officer, at the firemen's masquerade ball. Matt arrested an intoxicated man and took him to the basement.
Alfred and several companions followed and attempted to force the captive's release.

Matt warned the party that he would shoot if interfered with. The men attacked the officer, it is said, and he fired, the bullet striking his brother below the heart.

Matt Dotseth notified Mayor Conover of the shooting and was placed in jail.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—The jury in the second trial of Roscoe ("Patsy") Arbuckle for the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress, disagreed today and was discharged.

Announcement that the jury stood 10 for conviction and two for acquittal, was made by Leo Friedman, Assistant District Attorney, and a leading prosecution counsel, Harry McGovern, bailiff, made the same announcement.

"We expect to try the case again," Friedman said.
Arbuckle seemed downcast at the disagreement.

The case was put over until Monday to be set for retrial.

The courtroom was crowded for the result of the jury's deliberations.
The jurors all seemed haggard and worn.

the bungalow or apartment where they and Taylor had the home, and who described a strange man seen there early Wednesday evening Edna Purviance, actress, who told the police she had telephoned Mr.
Minter and others of the death
Charles Eyerann, a production manager at the studio where Taylor was employed, and Henry Peary Taylor, houseman, whose story was that he had left the Taylor home an hour or so before Miss Normand departed.

Police detectives are questioning Taylor's chauffeur as to his employer's movements in the last week or two. They hope to develop from the chauffeur's story some facts which might help to establish who did the shooting.

A half-dozen cigarette stubs found near the back door of Taylor's luxuriously appointed residence in a mystery of his death, an enigma mentally growing deeper since the discovery of his body, until it was the flimsiest mysteries Taylor directed in moving pictures.

These half-smoked stubs suggest a dark scene of a man nervous waiting in the shadows for a chance to strike at the noted movie director. They also suggest, however, that MacLean, who was aroused in his home near by a shot, that from Taylor's front door, look back and apparently speak, then close the door and depart.

The MacLean home overlooks the city of Los Angeles. Mrs. MacLean was at the time of the shooting.

WINDUP OF ARMS PARLEY PLANNED AT PLENARY SESSION FOR TOMORROW

Committee of Nine Decides That Two Treaties Shall Be Made in Settlement of Chinese Matters — Pact
Will Be Signed on Monday.

JAPAN GIVES GROUND ON "21 DEMANDS"

Would Withdraw Group 5, Which Would Practically Have Deprived China of Sovereignty; U. S. Protested Against Them.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—A plenary session of the arms conference was called for 10:30 a. m., tomorrow.

The "big line" of the arms conference, meeting today for the last time, whipped into shape the treaties relating to China and issued a formal call for a plenary session tomorrow to mark the final windup of the Washington negotiations.

It was decided to base only two treaties on the Chinese decisions of the conference and to embody in them only a few of the 15 resolutions adopted in regard to Chinese questions. One of the treaties will cover the Chinese tariff revision, and the other the Root "four points" and the open door. The remaining resolutions are to be presented at the final plenary session merely as a series of joint declarations of policy.

Treaty Signing Monday.
The nine delegation heads also discussed whether the formal signing of the naval and Far Eastern treaties Monday shall be in public or private. In some quarters, it was suggested that the signatures be affixed to the big green table in the continental hall where the plenary sessions are held, but there was no indication of a definite change in the original plan to hold the ceremony in the diplomatic anteroom of the late Department.

Plans had been made for the Japanese and Chinese to sign today their treaty on Shanghai, but it has been decided to postpone that also until Monday. The only remaining formal meetings of the day were a windup session of the Armaments committee and a similar session of the Far Eastern Committee called or late afternoon to hear China's statement on the "twenty-one demands."

By CHARLES MICHELSON,
Special Washington Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Saturday probably will see the end of the arms conference, for the delegates are to wind things up at plenary session on that day.

If the treaties cannot be completed in time, which is possible because of the elaborateness of the mechanical processes of their drafting and printing, then Monday is expected to be the windup. The British delegates are planning to sail or home on Tuesday, the French on Wednesday.

This program may be interfered in if a controversy over the "21 demands" develops into another hanging tangle. Baron Shidehara yesterday's session of the Far Eastern Committee electrified the audience by his formal announcement: That Japan is willing to 1. To open to the international consortium the railway loans South Manchuria and Inner Mongolia on which she holds an exclusive option under the treaty that bodies the demands.

2. Japan has no intention of interfering on her preferential right under that treaty relative to the engagement of Japanese advisers or structors on political, financial, military or police matters in South Manchuria.

3. Japan is ready to withdraw from group 5 of the demands.
4. Which was the most stringent of all, and which had been prepared for future consideration at the incident.

What "Group Five" Did.
"Group five" of the Japanese demands would have practically delivered China of sovereignty. They would have bound China to employ Japanese advisers in the military, financial and political departments of her Government, given Japan control of her main arsenal, provided for the stationing of Japanese important posts and granted extremely important concessions in the railway, mining and other concessions.

MAN MYSTERIOUSLY SLAIN WITH SHOTGUN

SAMUEL PATTI.

MAN MYSTERIOUSLY MURDERED AT GARAGE IN REAR OF HOME

The back yard to investigate. The door of the garage was open and Patti was lying on the ground, his head inside the garage and his feet in the yard. He was unconscious. A wad from a 16-gauge shotgun shell was near the body.

The automobile, with headlights burning, was standing about 10 feet from the garage door. It appeared that Patti had just opened the door of the garage when he was shot.

Frequently Signed Bonds.

Aside from his business as cattle trader, Patti was interested with Sam Presta, 5110 Wilson avenue, in a real estate house and frequently signed bonds for Italians who were arrested in connection with violation of the liquor laws. Prior to a year ago he conducted a grocery at Mackin and Southwest avenues.

For 15 years he had lived in that section of the city, which is largely inhabited by Italians. His wife said that to her knowledge he had no enemies.

Wednesday night, when the police were raiding a still at 5335 Pattison avenue, Patti drove up in his automobile and later furnished bond for Joseph Spina, 5239 Elizabeth avenue, who had been arrested in the raid.

Business Partner Held.

Presta, who was Patti's business partner, was taken into custody today for questioning. Mrs. Presta told a Post-Dispatch reporter that her husband was home all night, but knew that because he was sick and was awake most of the night.
She said Patti was there during the evening. She did not see him, but she heard his voice.

Presta said Patti came to his house at 8 o'clock and gave him a list of butcher shops at which deliveries were to be made this morning and they both drove in Patti's machine to the pool room, where Presta played two games of pool and then went into a rear room and played cards. Patti went across the street to a sick friend, Sam Russo, then returned and played pool awhile and went away, according to Presta. Presta later went home, he says, and at 11:30 was informed by Parisi that Patti had been killed.

Three other men have been taken to the Mounted District Station to be questioned. It is expected that all four will be released.

Mrs. Patti says she called up Mrs.
Presta at 11 o'clock and Mrs. Presta told her Presta was not at home and she wished he was, because she was sick.

Vincent Parisi, proprietor of the pool room at Cooper street and Wilson avenue, says Presta was there from 7:30 to 10 and that Patti came in between 8 and 8:30 and stayed until 10, playing four games with Sebastian Ross of 4018 Harcourt street. When Patti left, the pool room he drove away in his machine and nobody has been found who saw him after that until he was killed.

Paid $20 to "Avoid Trouble." Questioned closely about her husband's affairs and particularly as to whether he had received any threats, Mrs. Patti recalled that about a year ago her husband mentioned that an Italian had demanded $20 from him. He told her, she said, that he gave the money to "avoid trouble," but did not offer her any further explanation.

Carmelina Patti, 5 years old, daughter of the slain man, told the police that her father frequently cautioned her not to tell her name to strangers and not to talk with any strangers on her way to and from school. Mrs. Patti said her husband had said nothing about fearing kidnappers.

William Mathis of 2300 January avenue, a brother of Mrs. Patti, told reporters that Patti had a serious quarrel with another Italian last October or November. He said he did not know who the other man was,
but that he had overheard his brother-in-law discussing the incident.

The murder of Patti was in a setting similar to that of Frank C.
Herbst, 625 King's highway park, Carondelet, who was shot to death the night of March 8 last, when he was backing his automobile from his garage. The Herbst murder has newly aroused interest. Both men were shot from behind with shotgun slugs.
At 1:20 a. m. today policemen found an abandoned Ford sedan in a lot on Southwest avenue, about 100 feet east of Cooper street, which is about five blocks southeast of the Patti home. Three windows on the left side of the car were smashed, as though the car had been in a collision. The license number of the car was traced to Isaac Golding, 4158 Wyoming street, whose wife informed the police that he sold the car last August. Inquiry is being made to determine if this car might have had some connection with the murder.

FORDNEY STATES HOUSE WILL PASS BONUS IN 2 WEEKS

Senate to Follow Suit in Fortnight as Result of Meeting of Committees
With President.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

A Special Washington Correspondent

(Copyright, 1922.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—There will be a soldier bonus this year.
All doubt on the subject was removed when President Harding today agreed to meet the members of the Senate Finance committee and the House Ways and Means committee to determine the method of raising the money.

Chairman Fordney said after talking with the President that the soldier bonus bill would be passed by the House in two weeks. Senators at the White House said the Senate would follow suit in a fortnight.

How will the money be raised?
The probabilities are by a sale of Government bonds or Treasury certificates.

Direct taxation practically has been abandoned though Fordney was careful to point out that there were many ways of raising money and that Congress had varying opinions. He would not favor a tax on gasoline. He showed plainly that he didn't think much of the suggestions made by Secretary Mellon that money might be raised by taxes on second-class mail matter, tobacco and cigarettes.

Mellon had not made any "recommendation," but had listed the ways by which money could be raised out of the people's pockets.

Arguments for and against the tax on beer as a means of raising funds were heard today by the House committee and at their conclusion members indicated very clearly that such a tax was not to be considered.

Politics Opposed to Method.

Entirely apart from the unfavorable economic effects which might result from more taxation, the political situation is against this method. The very listing of possible sources of revenue by Secretary Mellon, sent political shivers up and down the spine of Congress.

The pendulum is swinging again toward raising the money out of the pockets of the allied debt. Chairman Fordney locked up the gates of the House really to talk about the bill empowering a commission to negotiate with foreign Governments concerning the payment of interest and principal on the war debt and made it clear that the funding bill itself no longer contained any reference to the soldier bonus and would not contain any provision about it at all.

But the bonus bill will provide not only five ways of Government aid to the war veterans, but will specify the exact means by which the money will be raised. Although the Treasury insists that the country cannot stand another bond issue without embarrassing the refunding operations whereby money is being raised, it is not so certain that the country cannot stand another bond issue.

Cardinal O'Connell Will Not Reach Naples Until Monday.
By the Associated Press.
ROME, Feb. 3.—The steamship President Wilson, bringing Cardinal O'Connell of Boston to Rome, will not arrive at Naples before next Monday morning. The company announced today it had received a wireless from the vessel which showed this: The captain has decided to call at Algiers.

That the predicted deficit is materializing rapidly.

Mr. Harding must decide whether the judgment of the Treasury Department is right or wrong. Members of Congress claim that the difference of opinion is entirely a matter of conjecture as to whether the American people will absorb in the way of securities and they claim that the Treasury Department is too conservative. In its estimates and projections the Treasury has been unduly pessimistic.

The bonus is coming. Congress will not take chances with the political influence of the soldiers this autumn. The President holds to the inevitable and stands ready to approve a bill which provides the money.

The White House is changing front. Whether this is because the chief executive thinks the economic condition of America has been vastly improved since he opposed the bonus last summer or because he is beginning to believe the country will lend its money again for a patriotic purpose, it is too early to tell. The fact is, all hope of seeing a presidential veto is vanishing.

Associated Industries of Missouri Hold Referendum on Bonus.

The Associated Industries of Missouri, an organization of 127 business concerns with headquarters at Platzen's Bank Building, is conducting a referendum of its membership on the proposal of a Federal bonus for former soldiers. Ballots have been mailed to all members with the request that the vote be "for" or "against" the bonus and return it promptly.

Accompanying the ballot is a copy of the letter written recently by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to Chairman Fordney of the House Ways and Means Committee, analyzing the bonus proposition and preserving the opinion that it would impose a great financial burden on the country.

COMMERCE CHAMBER ASKED TO INDORE BONUS BILL

Measure Now Pending in Congress Explained to Directors by Legion Committee.

An American Legion committee, headed by Jerome F. Duggan, chairman of the Legion's City Executive Committee, today explained the soldiers' adjusted compensation or "bonus" bill to the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and requested that the legislation be indorsed. On the committee with Duggan were Robert Burkham, Charles E. Pagett, Bennett C. Clark and H. H. Updegraff.

The Legion is giving its attention to the Chamber of Commerce on this subject because the United States Chamber of Commerce is taking a referendum of the Chambers of Commerce in the United States on the so-called bonus bill. The committee today pointed out that the Chambers of Commerce at Cleveland, Des Moines, Portland, Ore., and 18 other cities had indorsed the measure.

Duggan charged that the "same clique of Wall street political plun-ders who would rob the Mississippi Valley of its water power and the country of its timber and minerals" opposed the Muscle Shoals project and other constructive projects, was heading the opposition against the soldiers' legislation. He emphasized that the bonus bill was not a home aid, land settlement and paid-up insurance bill, as it was measured, and declared that those who would accept the cash option would be in the minority.

2 WOMEN SHOT BY MAN WHO BREAKS INTO KITCHEN

Mrs. Lillian Crystal of 909A South Fourteenth, and Guest, Mrs. Lucy Bostuck, Wounded.

Mrs. Lillian Crystal, 46 years old, a widow, of 909A South Fourteenth street, and Mrs. Lucy Bostuck, 44, of 819 Chambers street, were shot and seriously wounded at noon today by a man who, when refused admission to Mrs. Crystal's home, broke down the kitchen door and began shooting with a revolver.

Mrs. Crystal was shot through the right thigh and Mrs. Bostuck through the abdomen. Both were taken to the city hospital, where their condition was pronounced serious.

Mrs. Crystal told the police the man who shot them was John Hurley, about 35 years old, a steam fitter. He was intoxicated, and is being sought by the police.

Mrs. Crystal said Hurley came to her home at 9 a. m. today and that she refused to admit him, believing that he was intoxicated. She was acquainted with him several years ago, said, but had not seen him recently.

He returned at noon, she said, when Mrs. Bostuck, who is living apart from her husband, was visiting her. When she again refused to admit him he broke in the kitchen door. Mrs. Crystal is a seamstress and Mrs. Bostuck does domestic work.

SHACKLETON TO BE BURIED AT GATE TO ANTARCTIC, SAYS MAIL

Explorer Wished to Have Body Rest in South, Wife and Relatives Believe.

By the Associated Press.
The body of Sir Ernest Shackleton, which is now at Montevideo, Uruguay, will be taken back to South Georgia Island, and be buried there, according to the Daily Mail. This decision the Mail attributes to Lady Shackleton. In deference to what she believes would have been the explorer's wishes.

spective to his burial, but relatives and friends, the Mail says, feel that it would accord with his desire to be rested at the gate to the Antarctic.

Shackleton's grave, therefore,
probably will be beside the English church at Grytviken.

LAWYER GOT $50,000 FOR MAKING SALE OF ACID PLANT

The deposition of William H.
Cooke of 4511 S. Well street, who was president of the Commercial Acid Co., East St. Louis, when it was bought in January, 1918, by the Monsanto Chemical Works for about $2,000,000, was filed today in the suit of Albert J. Meier, an industrial engineer of Webster Groves, against the Monsanto Chemical Works on Capital Hill, St. Louis, alleging this amount to be due him for effecting the sale.

Cooke, who is now in California, testified that the sale was effected through the instrumentality of Charles Cummings, Collins, 20 Lenox place, a lawyer, to whom a fee of $50,000 was paid. He denied that Meier had anything to do with the sale. He said Meier had approached him in October, 1917, with a proposal to find a buyer for the plant and business, but that no contract was made with him and that he had nothing to do with the sale.

ELECTION RETURNS NOT YET IN

In the Secretary of State's office today it was stated that there is no expectation of being able to give out the official state returns before next Friday, Feb. 10.

Cigarette Stubs Clew in Movie Director's Death

Mrs. MacLean gives for the departure of the stranger from Taylor's house, a man boarded the car at a stop close by from which passengers rarely board a car. They describe him similarly.

These revelations have only served to deepen the mystery, for Mrs.
MacLean, who knew the former servant of Taylor, for whom the police are seeking and whom Taylor reported to the police some time ago as having stolen property and money from him, said that the stranger was not this servant. The porch light of Taylor's home was on, and Mrs.
MacLean observed him in its full glow.

Stories Coincide as to Time.
The movements of this stranger coincide with the visit of Miss Normand to Taylor's home on the evening of the murder. Taylor escorted Miss Normand to her motor car and talked a few minutes with her there. The front door to his home was open.
Investigators suggest that the stranger who had been nervously smoking cigarettes while waiting for an opportunity to get at Taylor apparently entered then.

The time Miss Normand fixed as her departure closely corresponds to the time Mrs. MacLean says as having heard the shot, an indication possibly, investigators say, that the stranger shot Taylor immediately after Taylor returned to his house and seated himself before his desk to continue work on his income tax statement.

Miss Purviance, who occupies a bungalow similar to Taylor's in the same court, informed the police that she returned home about midnight Wednesday and observed lights burning in Taylor's home. She said she thought nothing of it, as she knew Taylor to be a deep reader who often stayed up late. She said she was awakened the following morning by screams of Taylor's, negro leading director and others in the industry are said to be planning to offer a reward for the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Taylor.

Former Valet Sought.
The search for Edward Sands, former valet-secretary of Taylor, for whom warrants on charges of grand larceny were obtained by Taylor several weeks ago, extends to Fresno and Sacramento, according to the police, although Sands is known to have been here recently.

Jewelry stolen from Taylor's residence was pawned in Fresno and Sacramento and the pawn tickets, Christmas and New Year's greetings, were returned by mail to Taylor. Taylor, in reporting this to the police recently, said that he recognized the handwriting as that of Sands.

Sands, according to a report made a year ago by Taylor on his return from Europe, robbed him of jewelry, clothing and an automobile. Sands, Taylor then reported, had been in charge of the Taylor house. A warrant on two charges of grand larceny was issued Aug. 3.

Second Robbery.
The second robbery of the house reported to the police was several weeks ago. The rear door was smashed in and the place thoroughly ransacked and a stock of gold-tipped cigarettes and jewelry taken, according to the report to the police.

A week later the negro houseman found a gold-tipped cigarette of this variety on the door step, which Taylor reported to the police as an indication that the robber had revisited the scene.

This was followed by receipt of a letter signed "Alas Jimmy V." apparently mailed in Sacramento, which pawn tickets of jewelry pawed in Fresno and Sacramento were enclosed.

Pawned Articles Recovered.
Police here, upon being given a copy of this letter, recovered the pawned articles. The last trace of the supposed author was in Sacramento Dec. 27, when the "Jimmy V." letter was mailed to Taylor.

"It is a blind case," Captain of Police R. Moffatt said today. "We are seeking Sands for any information that he can give upon the subject."
The only possible motive thus far uncovered is that of putting out of the way a complaining witness in two felony cases. Sands was accused of felony by Taylor.

The life and activities of Taylor,
all his private and business relations, are under careful scrutiny by detectives. This inquiry, investigators say, is being carried into motion picture colonies throughout the country in efforts to unravel the experiences of one of their foremost directors.

Mabel Normand Questioned.
Every police known to have been in or near the house where Taylor died, with a bullet wound in the neck, was found yesterday morning has been closely questioned in the investigation.

BUILDING STATUS LIKENED TO "FIXED GAME OF POKER"

E. J. Miller, of Manufacturers' Body, Tells Citizens' Meeting That the Public Has No Chance.

WAGE SITUATION IS TERMED A MENACE

Workers Declared to Have Been "Sandbagged" Into Rejecting Cut in Pay by Certain Union Leaders.

The Citizens' Committee, that has been formed to devise ways by which the unions in the building trades may be induced to accept lower wages as a means of reducing building costs, so that projects acquiring $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 can be started, yesterday took over the situation from the Building Employers' Association at a meeting at Hotel Statler and will make investigations, which include hearing of all concerned, in order to get at the crux of the situation that is creating the hiatus in the building industry in this city.

The situation was likened to a poker game, with the master builders, the unions and the public sitting in as players and the cards being stacked, the rules made and the ante fixed against the latter. It was pointed out that the public had discovered it had not been getting a fair deal and had quit the game.
Louis J. Brooks was elected temporary chairman, and Herbert Garner, secretary. C. E. Williams of the Kiwanis Club and Edgar Gensenbach of the Chamber of Commerce were appointed to assist Brooks in suggesting men as permanent officers, and the next meeting, at which a permanent organization will be launched, will be at the call of the temporary chairman.

Situation Called Menace.

The meeting opened with A. J.
Widmer, a contracting engineer, presiding. He said the purpose was to lay the situation before the public for adjustment.
Gensenbach started the discussion by stating that the Chamber of Commerce would consent to be represented on the committee only on condition that the committee would be purely representative of the public and not of any individual interest.
He was assured that this was the purpose of the committee.

Paul Jones, representing the Real Estate Exchange, requested that all elements affecting building costs be investigated and not restricted to labor costs.

It was E. J. Miller of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, who compared the situation to a poker game. He said he was not attacking trades unionism, but was objecting to arbitrary price fixing in matters of labor by the unions and the master builders, which the third party in the game, the public, had to pay.

Cites Right of Competition.

"What other resource is left the third party but to quit the game?"
asked Miller. "And why acquiesce he does so, since the public has to be played in such a manner?
The question will not be solved until we recognize every individual right of competition as Nature's endowment of a man's right to live and to protect himself against all aggression therein."

Miller said he had positive proof that the recent referendum among the building crafts on the proposal of a 20 per cent reduction in wages, from $1.25 to $1 an hour, which was overwhelmingly defeated, was influenced by certain union leaders and that the men were "sandbagged into voting as they did."

Widmer Stated That the Master Builders' Association Had Realized That the Fixing of Wages with the Unions was Unfair to the Public, but That There was No Way Out for the Builders, as the Unions were Too Strongly Organized.

He said the master builders would like to have the open shop instituted in St. Louis, but did not believe it would be practicable for at least years to start a fight for it. However, he added, the builders would do whatever the Citizens' Committee recommended.

The Master Builders' Association submitted for the information of the committee what the contractors consider a fair wage for some of the crafts at this time, as follows: Carpenters, 85 cents an hour; helpers, 50 cents; concrete men, 65 cents; electricians, $1; hod carriers, 70 cents; hoisting engineers, $1; house movers, 75 cents; excavators, 50 cents; iron workers, $1; laborers, 50 cents; marble setters, $1; painters, $1; pipe fitters, $1; roofers, $1; sheet metal workers, 85 cents; steamfitters, $1; helpers, 50 cents; tile setters, $1; house wreckers, 40 cents;
pile drivers, $1 to $1.12 1/2.

The marble setters, tile setters and painters have already agreed to the wages recommended above.

Only Authentic Posed Photograph of the Former German Kaiser Made Since His Flight From Germany

(Copyright in the United States, Canada and Great Britain by the Keystone View Co.)

Ludendorff Held Picture of Kaiser at Million Marks

Story of How the Only Authentic Photograph of the Former Kaiser Was Obtained From General's Servant.

The story of the first authentic photograph of former Kaiser Wilhelm II. in exile, for which he says he paid 1,000,000 paper marks to Gen. Ludendorff, is told by Bert Gar, London manager of the Keystone View Co., in the following article, copyrighted in Great Britain, by the Keystone View Co.:

"The ex-Kaiser, as newspaper readers know, was one of the most photographed men in the world, before and during the war.
"When his downfall came and he fled to Holland, his liking for that kind of publicity changed with other habits and from the role of power he turned completely about face and fostered a positive hate for the lens.
Servants who attended him at Amerongen and later at Doorn said that he would not even look into a mirror for a long time after that fateful November day when his empire crumbled, and explain that he simply could not bear to look upon the countenance of the once most powerful monarch in the world.

He Barred Cameras.

"As soon as newspaper men became aware of the condition of the former Emperor they started making inquiries in operation to secure photographs of him, and the ex-Kaiser, learning this, gave strict orders to his entourage to rid his house of all cameras and to take precautions against visitors carrying them in.

"More than two years ago a Dutch photographer, hiding in a hay cart, was able to make a few long-distance snaps of him. The publication of these put the subject into a rage and he revised his orders against cameras to include the members of his immediate family.
Every person who visited the former war lord was searched for the trouble-making photograph machine, and in his hatred the exile compelled even his wife, the late Kaiser-in, to submit to search every time she entered the grounds of left them.

Underlying Purpose.

"Underlying this hatred was the desire of the former Kaiser that the German people should not see him in his altered condition, for, like Napoleon, he entertained, and probably still does, high hopes that he would one day re-enter his beloved Berlin and take up again the reins of government.
"Soon after Wilhelm took up his home at Doorn, his youngest son, Prince Joachim killed himself. This dollars, one of the Wieringen servants might have yielded to temptation, but the price would have had to be exorbitant to interest any of them, as the seller would have been to stay in the town after such an act.

Visit to Ludendorff.

"Seeing that my stay in Holland was fruitless, and still clinging to the idea that the photograph could be secured, I departed to see Ludendorff in Munich.

"The former Quartermaster-General of the German army lives in a picturesque villa in a suburb of the city and I repaired there to interview him. He received me and at first refused to pose for me. However, after showing him a few old snapshots of himself, he consented to let me take a photograph of him at his desk in his study.

"Immediately I entered the room,
I noticed on his desk, in a rich ma-hogony frame, the picture I was seeking. I whispered to my photographer to get a close-up, so the picture would show, but the General circumvented me by insisting on sitting in such a way as to hide the picture, and when I ventured a suggestion that he move so it would show, he answered by removing it to a drawer in the desk.

Purchase for 1,000,000 Marks.

"I approached him then on selling it to me and he was receptive, but he insisted on a price of 1,000,000 marks—approximately $200,000—which was, of course, out of the question.

"Leaving Munich, I went to Berlin, and interviewed there every other possessor of the coveted photograph, but met with flat failure, so I decided to give up my hunt.

"On the eve of my departure Gen.
Ludendorff's secretary visited me at my hotel and offered the General's copy for 1,000,000 paper marks—approximately $470, at the present rate of exchange—and knowing that I was about to depart he held out for that price, and I was compelled to give it to him.

"Over night he suffered a change of heart and in the railroad station in the morning he tried to induce me to return the picture to him, offering me a premium for it and explaining that he would have to commit suicide if he didn't get it. But I didn't believe that it was as serious as that and pacified him by telling him that I had already forwarded it, by courier, to London."

INQUIRY SHOWS SOME SPRINKLING AWARDS TOO HIGH

weeks before a new letting. It was said that the probably would be no sprinkling this year before April 1.

H. J. Hoffner, a contractor connected with the sprinkling contractors' organization, made a statement at the board hearing this morning in defense of the organization, which he declared to be just as legitimate as the organizations of merchants or bankers, and to exist for the purpose of "improving conditions in the business." When he was asked to name a fair average price per mile

NIGHT AND DAY BANK LONG IN BAD SHAPE, JURY SAYS

Report of Indictments Already Announced Declares Conditions Were Chaotic
in the Fall of 1920.

The December grand jury, in its final report to Judge Hogan today, said it was convinced that the affairs of the Night and Day Bank were in bad shape for more than a year before the closing of the bank by the State Commission of Finance, Jan. 6 last. It recommended that more bank examiners be employed to safeguard the interests of the public.

The following is the text of the jury's report on the investigation of the Night and Day Bank, which resulted in the return of 176 indictments against officers and directors:
"This grand jury has devoted considerable time to the investigation of the affairs of the Night and Day Bank of St. Louis. The investigation has convinced us that as far back as September, 1920, the records of this institution were in bad shape and its affairs in a chaotic condition.
The examinations made in the months of September and December, 1920, showed conclusively that its condition was far from being satisfactory at that time, and the evidence submitted to us showed this condition grew progressively worse, culminating in the closing of its doors Jan. 6 last.

"This grand jury is convinced that if the interests of the people are to be properly safeguarded, more examiners should be placed in the financial institutions, as well as the other institutions under the jurisdiction and supervision of the Commissioner of Finance, receive not less than one thorough examination each year as provided by law.

"In this connection this grand jury desires to recommend that the State's bank examiners be saludaries commensurate with the ability, experience and service required of examiners, and that their appointment be made under civil service rules."

As a result of the investigation 39 indictments were returned against Arthur O. Meininger, cashier of the bank, 23 against H. J. Hoffner, president, and 19 each against former Gov. Elliott W. Major, Judge William H. Allen, Thomas K. Coe-per, Phil A. McDermott, Frederick J.
Gorman, and Thomas L. Mauldin, directors.

The indictments were voted and made public Jan. 19 when all of those named in the bills were placed under bonds totaling more than $250,000.

The grand jury, in the term just closed, returned a total of 212 indictments and ignored six bills of complaint. It examined 250 witnesses.

Jail in Good Condition.

Reporting on its visit to city institutions, the jury said it found the city jail in good condition, but would recommend the speedy finishing of the upper part of the building, so that sleeping accommodations may be improved and women prisoners properly segregated.

The sanitarium was found to be well managed, though overcrowded.
The jury recommends that new walks and roadways be installed and that comfortable cars stop at the main gate of the sanitarium be restored. This stop recently was eliminated by the United Railways Co. The purchase of X-ray equipment for the sanitarium was recommended.

The report recommends that a bond issue be voted to enable the city to carry out the plans of the City Plan Commission and for the reconstruction, enlargement and development of city institutions, such as the sanitarium, Bellefontaine Farm and Koch Hospital and for the widening of streets, the creation of parks and playgrounds, a zoo, aquarium and other needed improvements.

for sprinkling for a season, he named $600 a mile.
The bidders who obtained the awards in 37 of the 42 city sprinkling districts, at Tuesday's letting, fixed prices of $441.30 to $400 a mile, and the price in a number of cases was about $550.

Versions of Money Offer.

Hoffner was named by Michael J.
Smith of 6771 Nashville avenue, as having offered Smith $1500, on behalf of the contractor's organization, to keep out of the bidding in five districts in the southwest part of the city. Smith's charge, as to Hoffner's offer, was the principal cause of today's special meeting of the Board of Public Service, and of the movement to rescind the awards.
Hoffner, in his statement to the board, denied the denial of the offer, and said Smith suggested

38 WOMEN AMONG 109 TAKEN IN RAID AT ALAMAC HOTEL

Police and Dry Agents Seize Merrymakers as Finale of "Theatrical Night"—All
but Five Released Later.

"Theatrical night" at the Alamac Hotel, a regular Thursday night occasion of merry-making by stage people and of daring indulgence by would-be Bohemians, had an extra dramatic finale last night when Federal prohibition agents and policemen, a regular army of them, deployed at Fourteenth and Chestnut streets, at 11:30 o'clock, and surrounded the hotel.

"Gee, here are the police!" The warning was shouted loudly enough to attract all but the most boisterous of the gay groups in the cafe.
Capt. Loepker of Central Police District, heading the police force, says the warning was given by J. W.
Stuenkel, a private watchman licensed by the Police Department, who should have been counted on the side of law enforcement. For what he considered an unwarranted infringement of his rights, the Captain forthwith suspended the watchman and will recommend that his license be revoked.

The warning was of little avail, however, to the trapped crowd, for already officers were stationed at all exits, and there was barely time to dash a few bottles and glasses before the police entered the main hall of the hotel before Chief Prohibition Enforcement Officer Nations and Agent Gaudin, with Federal search warrants, were in the midst of the revelers.

109 Taken to Station.

Four glasses of whiskey and one highball were all the evidence the officers were able to capture instantly. But prisoners they were aplenty. Some young couples, protesting mournfully that they were only on harmless "stumping parties" and showing sincerity, together with evidence of good character, were permitted to go. The patrol wagons were called and 109 persons, 38 of them women, were hauled to Central District and booked as prisoners.

The booking process was long,
and while the prisoners awaited their turns to give names and addresses and have a police charge entered, many of them tore to tiny bits all papers they had which would have revealed their correct identity.
The floor of Police Headquarters lobby was covered with such bits of paper as "Hohenschuldt."

When the police investigation was completed all but five of the prisoners were released at 5:15 a. m.
Among these was the manager of the hotel. The five who were held were those in front of whom the officers had found the four whiskeys and one highball. They gave names and addresses as follows: Miss Genevieve Bischoff, 21 years old, an actress, 3705 Windsor place; Samuel Sattin, 25, salesman, Alamac Hotel; William Carter, 50, 1605 Olive street; George Sheehan, 25, 4111 Shenandoah avenue; Max J. Weaver, 22, Marion Roe Hotel.

66 Punch Boards Seized.

Many of the women released gave their occupations as actresses, managers, saleswomen and milliners.
The police confiscated 66 punch boards which were found in the hotel.

The police forces participating in the raid consisted of Capt. Loepker, Lieuts. Doyle and Maupin, Detective Sergeant Roach and his squad, and a platoon of patrolmen.

that the organization should pay him $1500, but that Hoffner and F. A.
Stiers, another sprinkling contractor, who was with him at the time, gave him no encouragement in this idea.
Smith's sworn statement, embodying his charge of an attempt to buy him off, was read at the outset of the meeting. Two city detectives were present to prevent any disturbances.
About 100 persons attended the hearing, including the sprinkling contractors who received the awards, and some who were unsuccessful bidders.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service said, in opening the meeting, that there had been allegations of a combination of contractors to control prices. After Smith's statement had been read, he called on Peter Will of 4525 Swan avenue, who was quoted yesterday as having said that there was not a contractors' pool, which reimbursed its members for low bids in competitive districts, out of the excess profits on high bids in non-competitive districts.

Denies Statement as to Pool.

Will denied having made the statement attributed to him as to a pool. He said Stiers had called to see him, soon after he obtained blanks for bidding on certain districts, and had tried to persuade him not to bid.

"He said he would try to help me get work," Will testified.

"Did he mean that he would help you get work if you did not make a bid?" Kinsey asked.

"He didn't put it in those words," Will replied, "but that was how I understood him."

Will was asked what he considered a fair price, allowing a margin of profit to the contractor, for sprinkling per mile, and he replied that $340 would be a fair price.

Joseph Gioia of 5256 Patton avenue, an unsuccessful bidder, who also has been quoted as telling of a contractors' pool, was called for,
but was not at the hearing.

When no one else appeared to make charges as to the alleged combination, Kinsey called for statements from the contractors, and Hoffner responded. He began by giving his version of the call made by him and Stiers at Smith's grocery store Jan. 23, the day before the opening of bids.

He said Smith "did all the talking," and that when Smith suggested that "your bunch" of contractors should pay him $1500 to stay out of the bidding, Hoffner replied, "Good luck to you; go to it, get $15,000 if you can; I won't pay you a dime."

Hoffner Reminded of Bids.

After Hoffner had said that $500 a mile would be a fair average price, Kinsey asked him why some of the bids in competitive districts had been lower.
Hoffner replied that a contractor would rather take a chance of a loss, or of small profit, than to have his terms and wages idle. Kinsey reminded him that some of his own bids had been $600 a mile.

"Not long ago," Hoffner said,
"Smith wanted to submit some work from one of the sprinkling contractors. But our organization has a rule not to submit work to a non-member while a member is idle.
That's what I told him."

Every man who owns sprinkling equipment is in it, I think."

Price Combine Denied.

"In the purpose to get better prices," Kinsey asked.

"No," said Hoffner, "but if it were, we would be within the law."

Hoffner added that he himself was unsuccessful in his bids this year, and he said it might be to his advantage if the board should rescind the awards, as he might then get some of the work.

Kinsey asked Smith what he had to say as to Hoffner's counter-charge that Smith asked for $1500, instead of receiving an offer of that amount.

"I didn't expect Hoffner to admit my charge," Smith said. "But what did he and Stiers come out to my place for? And I'll say that anyone who knows Hoffner will know that when money is mentioned, he holds the floor." There was a general laugh at this remark.

Refuses to Answer Questions.

Tim Cavanaugh, who has been a sprinkling contractor 15 years, and who received awards for two districts this year, was called, but refused to answer Kinsey's questions.
"I don't want to answer any questions," he said. "This is my personal business, and that he would not answer questions until he should be brought before the proper people at the proper time and place under oath.
He refused to give his opinion as to a fair price for sprinkling, and refused to say why he bid $233 a mile on one district and $603 on another."

"Would you have lost money at $233?" Kinsey asked. "I wouldn't admit it if I was going to lose money," Cavanaugh replied. Kinsey reminded him that the hearing was not a criminal investigation, and Cavanaugh said, "Those are criminal charges, and I won't answer
them."

Cavanaugh said he was a member of the regular form for such cases.

President Kinsey of the Board said after a hearing that a transcript of the testimony given at the hear- ing would be submitted to the City Council, with the request that, if he sees fit, let the Circuit At- torney's attention to any matter of he should do so. Assistant Circuit Attorney Bowcock was at the hear- ing, having been sent by Circuit At- torney Stiers with instructions to report anything which might appear to call for action looking toward prosecution of anyone. Kinsey's procedure of submitting the matter through the City Council, follows the regular form for such cases.

STATEMENT ON GROUP BY SHIDEHARA

Complains of Chinese Attitude. Then Expresses Japan's Willingness to Make Concessions.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—In his formal statement to the arms conference Far Eastern Committee yesterday, Baron Shidehara declared the title "Twenty-one demands" usually used to describe the Japanese 1915 program, was misleading. His statement follows, in part: "At a previous session of this committee, the Chinese delegation presented a statement urging that the China-Japanese treaties and notes of 1915 be reconsidered and canceled. The Japanese delegation, while appreciating the difficult position of the Chinese delegation, does not feel at liberty to concur in the procedure to which China has now resorted with a view to cancellation of international engagements which she entered into as a free sovereign nation.

It is presumed that the Chinese delegation has no intention of calling in question the legal validity of the compacts of 1915, which were formally signed and sealed by the duly authorized representatives of the two Governments. And for which the exchange of ratifications was effected in conformity with established international usages. It should once be recognized that rights solemnly granted by treaty may be revoked at any time on the ground that they were conceded against the spontaneous will of the grantor, an exceedingly dangerous precedent will be established with far-reaching consequences upon the stability of the existing international relations in Asia, in Europe and everywhere.

"Difficult to Understand." "That statement of the Chinese delegation under review declares that China accepted the Japanese demands in 1915, hoping that a day would come when she should have the opportunity of bringing them up for reconsideration and cancellation. It is difficult to understand the meaning of this assertion. It cannot be the intention of the Chinese delegation to intimate that China may conclude a treaty with any thought of breaking it at the first opportunity.

"The Chinese delegation maintains that the treaties and notes in question are derogatory to the principles of international law. The conference with regard to China's sovereignty and independence. It has, however, been held by the conference on more than one occasion that concessions made by China, ex contractu, in the exercise of her own sovereign rights, cannot be regarded as inconsistent with her sovereignty and independence.

"The Japanese delegation cannot bring itself to the conclusion that any useful purpose will be served by research and re-examination at this conference of old grievances which one of the signatories represented here may have against another. It will be more in line with the high aim of the conference to look forward to the future with hope and with confidence.

"Having in view, however, the changes which have taken place in the situation since the conclusion of the China-Japanese treaties and notes of 1915, the Japanese delegation is happy to avail itself of the present occasion to make the following declaration:

"1. Japan is ready to throw open to the joint activity of the international financial consortium recently organized, the right of option granted exclusively in favor of Japanese capital with regard, first, to loans for the construction of railways in South Manchuria and Eastern Inner Mongolia, and, second, to loans to be secured on taxes in that region. It being understood that nothing in the present declaration shall be held to imply any modification or annulment of the understanding recorded in the officially announced notes and memoranda which were exchanged among the Governments of the countries represented in the consortium, and also among the national financial groups composing the consortium, in relation to the scope of the joint activity of that organization.

"2. Japan has no intention of insisting on her preferential rights under the China-Japanese arrangements in question concerning the engagement by China of Japanese advisers or instructors on political, financial, military or police matters in South Manchuria.

"Withdrawal of Group V." "3. Japan is further ready to withdraw the reservations which she made, in proceeding to the signature of the China-Japanese treaties and notes of 1915, to the effect that group five of the original proposals of the Japanese Government would be postponed for future negotiations.

"It would be needless to add that all matters relating to Shantung contained in those treaties and notes have now been definitely adjusted and disposed of.

"In coming to the decision, which I have had the honor to announce, Japan has been guided by a spirit of fairness and moderation, having always in view China's economic rights and the principle of equal opportunity.

Nine Convicts Reported Killed in Mine Gas Explosion. By the Associated Press. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 2.—Nine convicts were killed from a local gas explosion in the Hesse coal mine in Bibb County late yesterday, according to reports received here by C. H. Nesbitt, State Mine Inspector. Nesbitt said the superintendent of the mines told him the explosion was local, that all the bodies had been recovered and that the mine was clear.

ESCAPED YOUTH HELD ON CHECK FRAUD CHARGE

Richard H. Neel, Wanted at Boonville, Recently Was Witness in Edwardsville Trial.

Richard H. Neel, a St. Louis youth who escaped from the Boonville Reformatory and later appeared at Edwardsville, Ill., last October, testified in the trial of alleged freight car thieves and disappeared before an officer from the Reformatory could arrest him, is locked up in Edwardsville jail on the charge of passing seven checks on residents of Highland, Ill., which are alleged to have been worthless.

It develops that Neel has been in and around Highland ever since his disappearance from Edwardsville. He has represented himself as a detective for the American Railway Express Co., and has exhibited checks purporting to have been received from that company. State's Attorney Streuber of Madison County, who used Neel as a witness, lives in Highland.

The appearance of Neel as a witness in the Edwardsville trial, following his escape from Boonville, has never been explained. The Reformatory authorities learned he was in Edwardsville and sent a man after him. The judge refused to permit Neel to be arrested in the courtroom. While the officer was waiting outside the youth disappeared. He is still wanted at Boonville to serve out his term.

Neel had a preliminary hearing Wednesday before Justice Zeller at Highland on seven charges of passing checks on residents, which were drawn on the State and Savings Bank of Dupon, where he had no account. His defense was that he had had an account there and had merely overdrawn it, but the bank officers said he had never had an account there. He was bound over to the grand jury and was unable to give bond.

Officers of the Reformatory told the Post-Dispatch over the long-distance telephone today that it was known to the Madison County authorities that Neel was wanted at the Reformatory, and that they would take steps to have him returned to the institution.

PLEADS HE WAS INDUCED BY DRY AGENT TO BUY WHISKY

Man's Sentence Deferred by Judge Paris Until Officer Can Make an Explanation.

Sam Dalton, former bartender in a saloon at 724 Market street, was fined $250 and sentenced to serve two months in jail by Federal Judge Paris yesterday, when he pleaded guilty of having sold whisky to prohibition enforcement agents last April in the Market street place.

Edward Deibel, charged with selling to a prohibition agent in a place at 616 Walnut street, pleaded guilty, but said he had been induced by the agent to buy the whisky for him. Judge Paris deferred sentence to March 8, declaring "there are enough of these violations without Government agents inducing men to commit them," and ordering that the agent who arrested Deibel be in court on March 8, so that he could know the truth of the matter.

22 BODIES RECOVERED FROM DEBRIS OF MINE EXPLOSION

Three Bodies Buried Under Fall of Slate at Gates, Pa., Official Announcement Says.

By the Associated Press.
GATES, Pa., Feb. 2.—Twenty-five miners lost their lives in the explosion which wrecked part of the Gates mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Co. yesterday, according to an official announcement today. Twenty-two bodies have been recovered. The remaining three are buried under a fall of slate and cannot be reached.

The cause of the explosion is undetermined as no attempt had been made in that direction, from the appearance of the bodies it was indicated, however, that the men had been asphyxiated, as none of them were mutilated.

JOHN F. MEYER, 91, DIES

John F. Meyer, 91 years old, president of the John F. Meyer & Sons' Milling Co., died last night at his home, 1739 Pennsylvania avenue, after a two weeks' illness. He was born in Westphalia, Germany, and had lived in St. Louis 60 years, engaging first in the retail grocery business and entering the milling business in 1866. He retired four years ago. Four sons and three daughters survive. The funeral will be from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, at 10 a. m., tomorrow, to Calvary Cemetery.

ROADS ABOLISH HALF HOLIDAY

The Katy and Frisco railroads, which have general offices in St. Louis, have notified their clerks and other subordinate employees that the practice of several years' standing of allowing Saturday afternoon half holidays to employees who could be spared would be discontinued tomorrow.

However, those who can be spared still will be permitted to take the half day if they accept a corresponding reduction in their pay. Economy, said now to be essential on all railroads, is the reason assigned.

Autos Bad for Princeton Students.
By the Associated Press.
PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 2.—President John Greer Hohen of Princeton University today sent out letters to parents and guardians of all students, pointing out that far from being an asset to the academic equipment of undergraduates, an automobile was a positive detriment.

ADVERTISING. A MESSAGE TO TIRED, SICK FOLKS

Don't Drag Through Life Half Sick and Half Well.
Take This Advice

Go to your druggist and ask him for Gude's Pepto-Mangan and take it with your meals for a few weeks and see how your health improves. If you are pale, tired, lack ambition and vigor, you know yourself that if you had plenty of red blood that you would not feel tired and half sick all the time. The only sure foundation of permanent health is good blood. Gude's Pepto-Mangan builds up your blood with a form of iron that gets into your system quickly. It is wonderful. You will like it and it will make you feel so well and strong. Life will be worth living again. Try it and you will thank us for telling you about it. Druggists sell Gude's Pepto-Mangan in both liquid and tablet form.

COMBING WON'T RID HAIR OF DANDRUFF

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

Why CALUMET BAKING POWDER Contains White of Egg

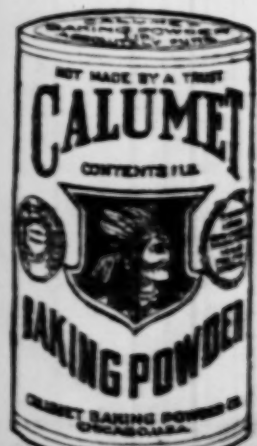

Every time you buy a can of Calumet Baking Powder you have positive proof of its leavening strength—you know that it is not deteriorated in the slightest degree. You have this assurance because Calumet contains a small amount of white of egg.

When the Calumet salesman calls on the grocer he makes a simple test of Calumet which discloses any deterioration that may have occurred through exposure to dampness or other causes. Without the presence of a small amount of white of egg this test could not be made.

When you buy and use baking powder that does not contain white of egg you take the chance of spoiling your baking because deterioration cannot be detected in such powders in any other manner than through laboratory tests.

Buy Calumet because you know what the results will be when you use it.

You save when you buy it—
You save when you use it.

HUGO STINNES MAKES WALL STREET SIT UP.

German Industrial Giant Reported Attempting American Invasion by Low Prices on Steel Rails.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The name of Hugo Stinnes, one of the great industrialists in Germany, has smashed its way into Wall Street.

Big business, particularly the steel industry, is interested, and is asking if Stinnes has designs upon the commercial and industrial activities of this country.

Various reports have come to the United States concerning plans of the German Croesus to extend his interests to this country, where he has heretofore been little known. But the first concrete evidence of his plans came yesterday with the announcement that he was negotiating with several American railroads for the sale of 15,000 tons of German rails—at a price, including freight, about $2.25 a ton less than the current American price of $4.50.

Question Waits on Time.
Whether Stinnes will follow up his efforts to acquire control of American industries is a question that time alone can solve. The United States is one of the few countries in the development of which he has apparently taken no hand.

Normally $2,000,000,000.
Credited with controlling $600,000,000 marks of capital and with being the most powerful figure, industrially and politically in Germany, Stinnes rode to the crest of his power on the war.

He it was, say his enemies, who conceived the idea of deporting Belgian workers to Germany, and who headed the German interests that exploited Belgian mines and other resources during the occupation. After the war Stinnes was the biggest iron and coal figure in Germany, and it was not until the close of the world struggle that he began reaching out on a large scale for other fields to conquer.

Reports of purchases, of consolidations, and reorganizations then became a matter of almost daily chronicling in the newspapers.

Pawnbroker to Lenin.
In one of the latest reports, he figured as a pawnbroker to the Russian soviet government, the story being that he had advanced Lenin a large sum on the Russian crown jewels.

Stinnes came of a family of coal mine operators, but had struck out early for himself, with his share of the family fortune, and soon became allied with Thyssen, the German ore and steel king. He broke with Thyssen shortly before the war, however, and in a few years had far outstripped his former partner.

His methods are similar to those of American financiers, obtaining control of various co-ordinated industries, not by flat purchase, but by obtaining control of a majority of the stock and using his vast wealth and credit constantly for further expansion.

He is credited with control of the People's Party, which now dominates Germany.

New Jersey Dry Law Discussion.
By the Associated Press.
TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 3.—Chaos prevailed today in New Jersey's officialdom as a result of the decision of the Court of Errors and Appeals in declaring unconstitutional the drastic state prohibition enforcement law known as the Kanessee act.

MAN MISSES WIFE, HELD WITH TEXAN, BY 3 HOURS

St. Louisan Goes in Search of Son After Woman Is Released at Dallas.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 2.—Edward Baker of 4622 Delmar boulevard, St.
Louis, manager of the St. Louis Commercial College, arrived here three hours too late to see his wife, Kades, and their 4-year-old son, who had been held 22 hours by the Dallas police with a Texan with whom Baker said his wife ran away from home.
The Texan is Jean de Constance of Dallas, an agricultural expert of the Texas Farm Bureau.

Mrs. Baker and De Constance were released when the police were advised by the Department of Justice and St. Louis police that they had no formal charges to place against either and had only a request from Baker to locate his wife and son.

Mrs. Baker told reporters she hated her husband "very cordially" and that her life with him had been "a hell." De Constance explained that he merely met Mrs. Baker by chance on the train and was not accompanying her, but, on second thought, "he would go to hell" for her.

De Constance departed "for Florida" after his release. The whereabouts of Mrs. Baker and her son is not known. Baker said he would go to Tyler, Tex., home of his wife's parents, in search of his son, and he did not wish a reconciliation with Mrs. Baker.

INDICTED MAN IS ACCUSED OF TAKING GARNISHEED $20,000

Money Alleged to Have Been Taken From Safe Deposit Box at Night and Day Bank.

Emmett Vajda of 5214 Pershing avenue, under indictment for grand larceny in connection with the seizure of $20,000 worth of Joseph Garnarville's liquor by pretended probation enforcement officers Dec. 4, is declared by Arthur Singer of Chicago, in a statement filed today in the Circuit Court, to have had $20,- 000 in a safe deposit box of the Night and Day Bank, which the bank permitted to be withdrawn after it had been garnished by Singer in his suit against Vajda for a debt of $12,000.

After the bank was garnished, it filed an answer that it had no money belonging to Vajda. The statement filed today by Singer is in reply to the bank's answer.

Garaville's statement of the disappearance of the liquor is that he hired Vajda to take it from his safe at 5701 De Oliverville avenue to his apartment and that while there was being done "fake prohibition enforcement" officers appeared and drove off with the liquor.

GERMAN MERCHANTS VICTIMIZED WITH U. S. CONFEDERATE MONEY

Dealers Are Advised to Effect Payments for Goods Only Through Banks.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Jan. 16.—Another issue of United States Confederate money, in $10 bills, has been put on the market in Germany, and several prominent merchants have been victimized to the extent of thousands of dollars. Scores of others have accepted the bad bills in smaller amounts.

A few months ago the Confederate money, suspiciously bright and clean, was passed quietly around to unsuspecting shopkeepers and to even a few visiting Americans who displayed carelessness in making change. At that time a warning was issued by the banks and the newspapers advised readers to use discretion. The latest known victim is a merchant who sold a bill of goods for $900 in cash and accepted the Confederate currency. He appealed to the American Association of Commerce and Trade in Berlin. The association, as a result of these raids on German marks and German goods by the Confederate money venders, has issued a warning to its clientele, declaring "the only way to avoid such losses is to effect all payments for goods through a bank, especially where foreign currency comes into question."

German merchants recently also have been accepting counterfeit German 50-mark notes, many of which are in circulation, although the police succeeded in capturing the counterfeiters.
Union Plans to Run Own Brick Kiln. By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—Operation of a brick kiln in or near San Francisco by the International Bricklayers' Union of America is under consideration, it became known today. Several officials of the union asserted at a meeting that brick can be made and sold at a fair profit for about half what is being charged here at the present time. The union already has a brick kiln in operation at El Paso.

CLINIC FOR JUVENILE COURT IS DISCUSSEDDoctors and Social Workers Meet to Consider Psychiatric Examination of Delinquents.

A group of persons interested in the welfare of St. Louis children will gather today in the office of the Big Brothers, 618 Rialto Building, to consider whether a psychiatric clinic can be attached to the juvenile court as a means of improving the court's understanding of individual cases and aiding children to overcome their tendency to delinquency.

A psychiatric clinic is one that searches for physical or mental explanation of acts of delinquency and seeks to remove or correct whatever conditions are found to govern the regular impulses. Such clinics are adjuncts of courts in Chicago, Detroit, New York and other cities. In some of these clinics, it has been established that in as many as 10 per cent of the children appearing in the court, there are physical or psychological conditions contributing to their acts.

Among those who will attend the meeting are Dr. M. A. Bliss, president of the Missouri Society for Mental Hygiene, Dr. Charles W. Tillery, who has been doing much volunteer work of this nature in the juvenile court, former Judge Thomas C. Hennings, president of the Big Brothers movement, representatives of the Community Council and others.

Foundation May Lead Aid.
Dr. Bliss has received a letter from Dr. V. V. Anderson, director of the juvenile delinquency work for the National Society for Mental Hygiene, which is endowed in much of its work by the Rockefeller Foundation, in which he states that if assurance can be given that such a clinic will be permanently maintained here, it is probable the Rockefeller Foundation will send to St. Louis a corps of trained psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers to remain here for several months, demonstrating how such a clinic should be conducted and training persons for future work in it. This service would be without charge.

"The cost of attaching a clinic to the juvenile court would not, I believe, exceed $15,000 a year," Dr. Bliss said. "The return to the individual and society at large cannot be measured by such small figures as $15,000."

Dr. Bliss said that the function of the court, which is protective, would be improved greatly if each judge in considering a child before him, had at hand an accurate study of the child's environment, his mental capacity and his physical handicaps.

Revealing of Classification.
"Engineers demand exact classification of material before they undertake construction," he said. "Human material, such as appears in the juvenile court, should be properly classified before it goes through the process our system has provided. If it is not classified, it comes out a haphazard. If classified, we may find at the other end a much-improved specimen of humanity—one that may reflect credit to the community rather than be a constant menace."

In many cities, psychiatric clinics are attached to all courts. Such a goal for St. Louis is considered desirable.

TROOPS AGAIN ARE ON WAY TO NEWPORT, KY., FOR STRIKE DUTY

Shipping and Machine Gun Play Mark Early Morning at the Rolling Mill.

By the Associated Press.
NEWPORT, Ky., Feb. 2.—With the Covington tank company in control upward of 100 Kentucky National Guardsmen today are on their way to Newport, Ky., having been ordered out late yesterday by Gov. Morrow for strike duty.

That the troops, sent there for the second time within five weeks, will not be withdrawn until order is maintained, was indicated.

By the Associated Press.
NEWPORT, Ky., Feb. 2.—Quiet prevailed in Newport early today except for intermittent shooting in the vicinity of the Newport rolling mill. Shortly before 2 o'clock this morning a flurry was caused when sniping from outside the mills was followed by firing from machine and riot guns inside the plant. The guns were turned toward the Covington bank of the Licking River. More than 100 shots were fired, but no casualties were reported.

Earlier, Safety Commissioner W. C. Thomas was hurried out of the strike zone in a patrol wagon after he had been threatened by an assembly of strike sympathizers. Sheriff Louis B. Tipton was grazed by a bullet fired by a sniper.

ORGANIZATION TO AID JOBLESS

Eight Noncommercial Agencies to Combine Their Efforts.

An organization of eight noncommercial employment agencies was perfected yesterday afternoon at a meeting called by the Unemployment Committee of the Community Council. The agencies joining the organization are the Red Cross, Urban League, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Jewish Community Center, Knights of Columbus, Tuberculosis Society and the Women's Department of the Missouri State Free Employment Bureau.

A meeting will be held in the near future to discuss the advisability of maintaining only one bureau and to consider means of relieving the unemployment situation. Roy Wenzel, chief of the Y. M. C. A. Bureau, was elected chairman of the organization.

How Germans Made Towns
in Ardennes Pay in 1915Representative of Department Tells Deputies 1-500,000 Francs Were Exact of Four Mayors Who Fed Hidden Soldiers.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Feb. 2.—The Chamber of Deputies was deeply stirred today by a war story told by M. Philippon, deputy representing the Ardennes Department, which was completely occupied by the Germans throughout the war.

"Four Mayors found means to feed a company of French soldiers concealed in the Forest of Ardennes for four months in 1915," said the deputy. "Eventually the French were compelled to surrender, and the German authorities fined the district 1,500,000 francs, and demanded immediate payment. To any demur they replied: 'We, as

SOCIETY FORMED TO MAKE LONDON 'MAGNET OF WORLD'

Organization Plans to Attract People With Money to Spend; Tourist Trade Shows Decrease.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Feb. 2.—The "Bright London Society," which has just been formed, has undertaken what it termed a "society tall order." It is nothing less than to make London the "magnet of the world" and thereby attract to it multitudes of people, with plenty of money to spend, especially rich Americans.

The society is the outgrowth of a recent discussion among a number of prominent business men who deplored the fact that American tourists were not so numerous as they were before the war.

"The promoters of the new society," writes one of them, "hope to help make London the most worthy and beautiful city in the world; dispel its drabness, abolish its smoke evil and disperse its too frequent fogs; beautify the river approaches and lengthen the Thames embankment; object to the erection of ugly buildings, but to assist in every way the overcoming of unnecessary restrictions; help the theaters, hotels and restaurants and shops of the metropolis and thus attract the merchants and tourists of the world."

RUSSIAN PREDICTS FALL OF SOVIET REGIME BY SUMMER

CINCINNATI, Feb. 2.—Collapse of the Bolshevik Government in Russia next summer was predicted by Count Ilya Tolstoy, Russian author and philosopher, in an address here today. Count Tolstoy spoke before a combined meeting of the Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis and several other prominent clubs.

He said the only thing that had kept the Bolshevik Government going this winter was the severe cold weather, which made it impossible for the people to form uprisings.

Count Tolstoy predicted the founding in Russia in the near future of a republic to be known as the United States of Russia.

HOUSE COMMITTEE FAVORS BILL
FOR SEVEN FOREIGN CEMETERIESRecommends Appropriation for Buying Tracts in Europe to Bury War Dead.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Favorable report of a bill authorizing appropriation of $111,000 for the purchase of seven tracts in Europe to be used as cemeteries for American war dead, was ordered today by the House military committee.

The War Department has estimated that the bodies of 32,000 soldiers will remain overseas and it is its intention to concentrate them in eight permanent cemeteries, six in France, one in Belgium, and one in England.

The bill provides for acquisition of all except one of the sites.

Don't Temporarily With Constipation!
Drive It Out of Your System!

Brain will clear simply complexion and sweeten disagreeable breath. You should know Kellogg's Bran as a nature-food. It is one of the most delicious cereals you ever ate. Do not confuse it with "remedies" such as pills or cathartics which never can and never will give permanent relief from constipation. Kellogg's Bran is nature's corrector. It acts as a sweeper, cleansing and purifying and regulating, whereas pills and cathartics can give but temporary action at best. Bran never irritates or makes you uncomfortable!

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krum-bled, is used in thousands of homes in many kinds of foods as well as a cereal. It makes the best pancakes you ever ate.

Use it in raisin bread, muffins, macaroni, gravies or in many other enticing ways. Your grocer has it.

ATLANTA CONDITIONS IMPROVING

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 2.—Conditions here are gradually improving and bankers and business men see a slow but certain light in all lines as compared with conditions here a year ago. All for natural seasonal recession situation is on a sounder footing throughout the Southeast. The rail districts are still slow to get from depression, but their recovery is none the less certain according to the local bankers.

Credits are blamed for the situation in the country districts and it is expressed that the farm loan will be able to provide sufficient help to enable the small counties to get on their feet. The permits issued here last year passed the $1,000,000 mark, the best record made in any year in 10 years. More money started than in any month this has ever known.

Stockholders of the Georgia Power Co., which proposes and electric light to Atlanta, have voted to appeal the decision of the Circuit Court of Atlanta which upheld an order of the Railway Commission reducing the rate for gas from $1.65 to $1.10 per cubic foot. Ten gas companies in Georgia have been ordered to show cause why their rates should not be reduced.

MOTOR CO. All whose business would be benefited by an increase of local employment are hoping that Henry Ford will be the successful bidder. Word has leaked down through the Ford offices that Ford plans to loan his purse strings and spend large sums to put the Lincoln car in the forefront of the automobile market if he gains control. In addition to selling the Lincolns at a popular price, he plans, it is said, to produce 8000 or 9000 cars the first year, which will mean an outlay for payrolls and materials from $15,000,000 to $18,000,000.

Other manufacturers, however, do not view Ford's acquisition of the Lincoln assets with such pleasant anticipations as the merchants. Many plants are having a struggle to meet recurring waves of lower prices, and it is felt that if Ford gets into the high-grade car business he will drive prices down so fast that only a few strong companies can survive. In this event, they point out, Detroit's gains from increased Ford operations may be offset by the passing of smaller concerns. The Employers' Association reports an increase in employment of 1484 men this week, bringing the total to 169,000.

HOUSING DEMAND EXISTS.
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2.—A large number of business and commercial structures are planned for erection this spring. The demand for additional housing for business enterprises is regarded here as an excellent indication of the betterment of business conditions.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 2.—The plants of the American Shipbuilding Co. here, at Lorain and at Buffalo are busy on repair work necessitated by the recent big storm, and will remain thus occupied until spring. No new construction is under way.

WOOL.
BOSTON, Feb. 3.—The Government wool auction sales, results of which were totaled today, showed advances of about 25 per cent over those obtaining at the last sale. About 7000 pounds were disposed of.

COTTON.
BOSTON, Feb. 3.—While the 20 per cent cut in wages of textile operatives which will go into effect Feb. 12 is not general throughout New England, it will affect many important Maine and New Hampshire mills, including Amoskeag and the Hilsen-Fabry chain.

OIL.
MONROE, La., Feb. 3.—One of the pipe line companies here has begun the shipment of more than a million and a quarter barrels of crude oil from the Haynesville and Eldorado fields. It also has purchased 5,000,000 barrels of oil from the Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas fields for shipment abroad. This oil will be routed through Galveston and New Orleans.

FLOUR.
SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 3.—Flour mills working on 50 to 60 per cent capacity in this region on a 24-hour basis. Export demand chief for the Orient and the European continent is slow. The Far Eastern buying has served to increase prices 20 to 40 cents a barrel in the last two weeks.

GROCERIES.
NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The National Grocery Co., which operates a system of chain stores, has announced that 50 new stores will be opened in New Jersey during the year.

COAL AND COKE.
CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 3.—Four dollars is the price quoted on spot foundry coke, with some selling at 25 cents less. It is denied that sales of first-grade coke have been made at less than $4.

STEEL AND IRON.
NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Threats of a coal strike is commanding the attention of pig iron makers and consumers as the supply of iron on hand is short and any spurt of buying might develop a shortage.

CLOTHING.
SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 3.—Clothing dealers report trade extremely dull in all lines. One large retailer has been compelled to settle with his creditors at 40 cents on the dollar.

AUTOMOBILES.
CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—With the annual automobile show in progress, business in automobiles is good and plenty of enthusiasm is shown. Response is reported to recent price cuts.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Reductions in the price of parts of the Franklin automobile ranging from 10 to 40 per cent are in effect. The Long Island Motor Co. reached a production of 100 cars a day.

RICE.
NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3.—Rice producers are greatly encouraged by the sale this week of 7000 tons of rice from Texas and Louisiana and the promise of the purchase of 25,000 tons more for Russian relief.

DRY GOODS.
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—Thirteen of the large dry goods firms of this city reported that the gain in business recorded in December has been followed by an unusual lull.

BOUNDARY DISPUTE IN IRELAND IS REVIVED

Ulster Premier Says Collins Has Promise to Bring Half of North Into Free State.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, declared in a statement today that he had been told by Michael Collins, head of the Southern Ireland provisional government at their conference in Dublin, yesterday, that Collins had received a promise of bringing into the Irish Free State almost half of North Ireland, including Fermanagh, Tyrone, large parts of Armagh and Down, and Londonderry City, Enniskillen and Newry.

Sir James said he had suggested to Collins a week's adjournment for consideration of the situation regarding the boundaries between Ulster and South Ireland, but that Collins had replied the differences separating them were so wide that postponement would be useless.

Trouble Called Grave.
The Ulster Premier's statement was made to the press after he had conferred with Winston Churchill, the Colonial Secretary at the colonial office. Sir James emphasized the gravity which he attached to the hitch in the negotiations with the provisional government.

"I went to Dublin yesterday," he said, "to discuss with Michael Collins certain outstanding questions, hoping to promote peace in Ireland. It was only when I started from Belfast, however, and read the morning papers that I suspected any change of attitude on the part of Collins."

"I notice that he had received deputations of Sinn Feiners from different parts of Ulster the previous day demanding that their areas should be taken into the Free State. Collins replied that the deputations that they were only trying to force open the door and using unnecessary energy in doing so. Arthur Griffith, who also was present, said he and his fellow delegates had urged the claims of those districts for weeks during the negotiations in London and the result was that the Free State should extend over Ireland, that Ulster should have the option of voting herself out, but that if she did so she would be a mission would be set up to decide if such districts should come into the Free State. That, said Griffith, was the position today also.

"I decided to have the matter cleared up immediately so as to obviate even a shadow of further misunderstanding, and I have to admit that in the conversations with Collins yesterday the difficulties regarding the Ulster boundaries have been revived in intensified form."

"When the treaty was entered into between the British Government and representatives of Southern Ireland, we in Ulster were not consulted. We faced the possibility of a loss of territory without our consent—territory solemnly assured to us as established government by his majesty, the King, and the Parliament of Great Britain. I endeavored to find a solution of the difficulty, and I am earnestly trying to bring about an honorable peace in an honorable way."

The Ulster Premier said the British Ministers had assured him privately and that Prime Minister Lloyd George had stated in the House of Commons that the boundary commission proviso meant a mere readjustment of the boundary.

"I am offering to lay my views before the whole British Cabinet," added Sir James, "and will consult my colleagues in our local Parliament and in the Imperial Parliament regarding the steps to be taken in consequence of the serious situation—one which is not of my making, but which I earnestly tried to avoid."

INCREASE OF SALARY FOR KENYON OPEN TO QUESTION

Special Act May Be Necessary to Give New Circuit Judge Pay He Merited Raise.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The appointment of Senator Kenyon of Iowa, as United States Circuit Judge may result in the passage of a special act by both Houses of Congress to meet completely the situation it was intimated last night in administration circles. This course may be necessary, it was said, as the salary of United States Circuit Judges was increased by Congress in 1919 from $7000 to $8,500 when Senator Kenyon was a member of that body and the constitution expressly states that:

shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed in any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time.

It was recalled tonight that the late Senator Ransom of North Carolina was appointed Minister to Mexico in 1889 after the salary had been increased during his term as Senator, and under an opinion from the Attorney-General, he relinquished the post. But when the late Philander C. Knox was appointed Secretary of State by President Taft, after the salary for that office had been increased during his term as Senator, he was appointed at the salary which existed before the increase and subsequently the increase was accorded him through a special act of Congress.

FRENCH EDITOR PLEADS FOR U. S. ASSISTANCE IN EUROPE

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Referring to the New York World's editorial declaring that so long as America clings to the policy of holding aloof from European affairs, French politicians will continue to exploit the fears of the French people, Henri Dumay, editor of Le Progres Civique and one of the really few Liberal writers of the French press, says:

"This opinion is perfectly correct. The World might add that it is rather a strange pretension on the part of America to give us advice and then to refuse to help us if we get into trouble by following it. It is quite possible, of course, that our statements are mistaken. But who does not make mistakes? In any case, there is one way of leading them to total disarmament by irresistible moral pressure, namely: by the entrance of America into the League of Nations with the same good faith, resolution and energy she showed when she came into the war. Why does she refuse?"

On the cover of the same number of Le Progres Civique is a cartoon which recalls the World's cartoon depicting France trying on the spiked helmet of German militarism, which provoked so much comment. This French version represents France having her fortune told by Germania, in the guise of an old woman, who tells her:

"Alas, Madame, you are like me in former days. You're too fond of the soldiers."

ECONOMIC RELIEF LIES WITH ROADS, HOOVER DECLARES

Freight Rate Reduction and Rail Expansion Necessary to Recovery, Commerce Commission Is Told.

SEES DOWNWARD REVISION THIS YEAR

Suggests First Application of Lower Rates to Basic Commodities as Solution of Problem.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Reduction of freight rates and resumption of railroad expansion are the two sources from which the country may get its strongest impulse toward economic betterment, Secretary Hoover declared today, appearing as a witness in the Interstate Commerce Commission investigation of transportation charges. The first, he said, depends on a reduction of operating costs, and the second on a restoration of railway credit.

Transportation earnings, now "permanently close to bond interest," Mr. Hoover said, make it impossible for the commission to give "immediate important rate relief," but he said that improving conditions would allow downward revisions during the present year.

Suggests Careful Application. When such revisions were made, he said, the commission should apply them first to the primary basic commodities—agricultural products, coal, metals and timber—even if passenger rates, class rates, and less-than-carload shipments had to be changed more to protect railroad revenues. This course should be adopted, he argued, because the services of hauling percentages were advanced were distorting the existing fabric of commerce in the United States and "was moving industry as a whole toward its sources of raw materials."

Incidentally, rail wages should not be expected to go back to pre-war levels, he said, but should "follow downward step by step the cost of living," and the rate decreases should be so applied as to maintain railroad revenues and restore the confidence of investors in ultimate railroad earning power.

Rail Improvement Urged. "We talk glibly of giving millions of credits to foreign countries to increase our farm exports," Mr. Hoover said. "I wish to say with all responsibility for the statement that a million dollars spent upon American railways will give more employment to our people, more advance to our industry, more assistance to our farmers and more that sum expended outside the frontiers of the United States—and there will be greater security for investors."

There is danger that in the present period of low earnings and little traffic, the needs of the railroads in new construction, equipment, betterments and maintenance will be neglected, Mr. Hoover added, with resulting breakdown of transportation when a full load is put upon the railroads by industrial resumption.

This should be averted, even by the extension of Government endorsement of railroad securities whose sale would give bonds for expenditure on equipment. The commission's efforts should be devoted, he said, to a policy of "maintaining public control of monopoly and at the same time maintaining private initiative."

15 CATS WERE RESCUED FROM TELEGRAPH POLES LAST YEAR

The report of the Humane Society of Missouri for 1922, filed yesterday by George E. Dickman, its acting president and secretary, showed that in the year 267 cats were handled, among which there were no cases of cruelty to children.

The society expended $12,140.00 for shelter for animals and $205.52 for incidental expenses. It finished the year with a balance of $547.56 in cash and $990 in bonds. One of its activities was to take over the St. Louis dog pound and change its name to the Animal Shelter.

Thereafter the sale of dogs for vivisection was discontinued and dogs and cats not claimed were put to death with gas instead of with sulphur as formerly.

During the year 8447 dogs were caught and only 1508 were released. Homes were found for 51 cats, 15 were removed from telegraph poles and 649 were killed. One horse was removed from a coal hole and 154 were ordered properly stabled. The society handled all cases of distress or cruelty to animals without charge. Its support is from membership fees of $5 a year and voluntary contributions.

Your Own Medicine and the Best There Is.

It's Good When All Mucus is Cleaned Out of Your Throat and Lungs.

It is an inexpensive homemade remedy that you can't beat and one that quickly brings up that phlegm, stops coughing, relieves the irritated nostrils, soothes the throat and causes a good sleep over night.

Many times over night
a right away if you suffer from a cold or any irritating throat troubles and you'll be all right again in a little bit of time.

Don't buy any drugstore concoction of sugar (which is strong), add to it a teaspoon and enough water to make about a pint. You can make it in two minutes and when it is mixed you can sip it as often as you like. It is the simplest and most effective remedy for all colds and acts so effectively that all phlegm is loosened and inflamed throats are quickly disinfected.

5379 Pershing avenue, and Lewis T.
Apple, 5861 De Giverville avenue, who were arrested in a raid on Cafferata's Cafe, Hamilton avenue and Delmar boulevard, Jan. 21, and charged with violating the Volstead Act by having liquor in their possession, were discharged yesterday by United States Commissioner Atkins
after a preliminary hearing.
Commissioner Atkins said the Government had failed to establish ownership of the liquor which was found on and under tables at which the men were seated.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 3.—Unending ardidity is all Winnipeg's advocates of modified prohibition through Government controlled liquor stores, saw before them today. The Legislature last night rejected a referendum petition by a vote of 27 to 25. Members of the Moderation League had introduced for a referendum on the question of modified prohibition, providing for liquor sales in a manner largely similar to the existing Quebec method.

LOSS ON 10-CENT PHONE CALLS, HOTEL MEN SAYHearing on Citation to Show Why Such a Charge Is Necessary.By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 2.—Hotels in St. Louis and other cities of the State lose more money on telephone service to rooms of guests than they receive from the 10-cent toll which hotels pay. The establishment impose on outgoing calls from the guests, according to testimony advanced today to the Public Service Commission by representatives of hotels from St. Louis, Kansas City and Joplin.

The evidence was offered when the hotel men were summoned to show why it was necessary to charge guests 10 cents for call made from their rooms.

Charles M. Polk, attorney for the St. Louis Hotel Men's Association, and Lyman T. Hay of the Hotel Jefferson were among those who appeared from St. Louis. Chairman John Kurtz expressed a desire to know the necessity for the charge and two contentions were filed in reply.

One was that the Public Service Commission had no jurisdiction in this particular case. The other was that the hotel men would be willing to abolish individual telephone service in rooms but that such service is now demanded by the guests.

The St. Louis representatives offered to produce books to show that they pay the telephone companies more money than is received from outgoing calls. It was agreed to draw up a statement of facts.

It was pointed out that conventions, banquets and ordinary routine calls far outnumber the calls that are made from rooms and that the outside calls at some important gatherings often require services of extra operators.

Three Seel Lincoln Motors.
DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 2.—Three bidders will appear tomorrow at the public sale here of the Lincoln Motors Co. Indications that Henry Ford would be the only bidder were upset at the last minute, when the Federal Court accepted certified checks for $250,000 from two additional prospective purchasers. The Court announced the property would not be sold for less than $5,000,000. The sale will take place at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

PART TWO.

SPENCER DEFENDS
OF NEWBERY
TERMSSenior Senator Says Case as Republican to OrBy CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Today Congressional Record contains a verbatim report of another session of the two Missouri Senators over the Newberry case. Sen.
Spencer, who led the successful fight against the proposed ousting of the Michigan Senator, whose many campaign cost admittedly least $135,000, declared that Newberry had been given a "trinity vindication" of the people of State by the courts and by the Senate. Spencer's speech, which read, was in reply to the recent speech of Senator Reed against repeal of the Senate majority adopting the Spencer-Willis washing resolution.Reed, in a rejoinder to his league just before leaving the capitol to catch a train for St. Louis, reiterated his previous condemnation and wound up with the well shot, "When I get back we will try the Newberry case all over again." Senator Spencer, speaking in reply to his colleague's recent address, declared with reference to speech that "vindication is not denied, and vituperation cannot be substituted for facts in the Senate of the United States."Reed said that in the controversy he intended to keep close to written confessions by the majority (Republican) party in the Senate and that the Senate adopted clearing Senator Newberry entirely the seat but condemning excessive campaign expenditures.No man could vote for the resolutions and in the same breath justify the beneficiary who "condemned" Senator Reed. "I understand he was a man of nerve who would credit to a first-class devil."If all the politicians on earth all the devils of hell were to repeat the words, "they could not do it," it would be a waste of time.
The Senator has voted that it was not contrary to sound public policy to the honor and dignity of the Senate and dangerous to perpetuity of free government, then he has the cool front to stand on the floor of this chamber and say that the ratification by people of Michigan is a justification for which he has himself denied in as strong language as he penned.Course for Newberry Suggests Senator Reed said there was one course open for Senator Newberry and that was to refuse to accept the result. Newberry said, adding that when he refused the acts of his friends in expenditure of money he would repudiate the benefits of their action. "A man might just as well that he was the receiver of a good," he continued, "but he did not know they were stolen and he did not know that when they were stolen he would them."Senator Willis, Republican, sought to answer the Reed speech of last week but spoke only because of the desire of Senate adjourn. He told the Senate he was perfectly willing to consider differences of opinion on Newberry controversy, and added
"I can concede also that Senator Reed is still honorable. I resent the foundationless charge that he is not. I respect such attacks for I believe I have as a sense of honor as self-appointed guardians of the Senate's conduct."Spencer's Reply to Reed.
Spencer, in replying to Reed, prepared address, in which he said: "In the first place, there was no caucus, at least on the Republican side of the chamber, ever in connection with the Newberry case. At this phase of it, and this the Senator, with his great intelligence, must have known or have ascertained by mere inquiry.
The action of the Senate was based on the fact that the Republicans, entirely uninfluenced by any party caucus or conference, had been true to the Democratic side. I do not know of any fact that not a single Democratic Senator voted to seat Senator Newberry."My colleague expressly stated that the Senate had voted the case by Newberry were of a calculated to endanger the representation and then voted to ratify his action to seat him in the United States Senate.
The Senate voted no such action, but voted precisely the opposite. If the senior Senator from Missouri had been in attendance at the debate or even on the day the vote was taken he might not have made the statement which I quoted.
There can be no quibbling words about the action of the Senate that will deceive any intelligent American.

SPENCER DEFENDS SUPPORT OF NEWBERRY AND REED TERMS IT AN APOLOGY

Senior Senator Says Man Who Could Act on Case as Republicans Did Would Do Credit to Orthodox Devil.

By CHARLES G. ROSS.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Today's Congressional Record contains the verbal report of another set-to between the two Missouri Senators over the Newberry case. Senator Spencer, who led the successful fight against the proposed ousting of the Michigan Senator, whose primary campaign cost admittedly at least $125,000, declared that a "trinity of vindication" of the people of the State, by the courts and by the Senate, was in reply to the recent philippic of Senator Reed against the action of the Senate majority in adopting the Newberry-Willis white-washing resolution.

Reed, in a rejoinder to his colleague just before leaving the chamber to catch a train for St. Louis, reiterated his previous condemnation and wound up with the farewell shot, "When I get back we can try the Newberry case all over."

Senator Spencer, speaking in reply to his colleague's recent address declared with reference to that speech that "vindication is not evidence and vituperation cannot be substituted for facts in the Senate of the United States."

Reed said that in the controversy he intended to keep close to "the written confession by the majority (Republican) party" in the resolution which the Senate adopted declaring Senator Newberry entitled to the seat but condemning excessive campaign expenditures.

No man could vote for the resolution and in the same breath seek to justify the beneficiary who was "condemned," Senator Reed stated, unless he was "a man of nerve that could credit to a first-class orthodox devil."

"If all the politicians on earth and all the devils of hell were to puff Mr. Reed said, they could not rattle his crime or wash it of its taint. The Senator has voted that it was an act contrary to sound public policy, harmful to the honor and dignity of the Senate and dangerous to the perpetuity of free government, and then he has the cool effrontery to stand on the floor of this chamber and say that the ratification by the people of Michigan is a justification for that which he has himself condemned in as strong language as can be penned."

Course for Newberry Suggested.
Senator Reed said that he would only open a course open for Senator Newberry and that was to refuse to accept the result. Newberry should have "repudiated" the election, he said, adding that "if Senator Reed had the acts of his friends in the expenditure of money he would also repudiate the benefits of their acts. A man might just as well say that he was the receiver of stolen goods," he continued, "but he did not know they were stolen when he accepted them but that although they were stolen he would keep them."

Senator Willis, Republican, Ohio, sought to answer the Reed attack of last week but spoke only briefly because of the delay of Senator Reed. He told the Senate that he was perfectly willing to concede honest differences of opinion on the Newberry controversy, and added: "I can concede that Senator Reed can have these differences of opinion and still be honorable. But I resent the foundationless charges flung at us here. I resent such attacks as I believe I have the high sense of honor as self-appointed guardians of the Senate's morals and self-appointed censors of the Senate's conduct."

Spencer, in reply to Reed, read a prepared address, in which he declared: "In the first place, there was no caucus, at least on the Republican side of the chamber, ever held in connection with the Newberry case, or any phase of it, and this the Senate, with its great intelligence, either must have known or could have ascertained by mere inquiry."

"The action of the Senate was, at least so far as the Republicans were concerned, entirely unprejudiced by any party caucus or conference. What may have been true upon the Democratic side, I do not know. The fact is that not a single Democratic Senator voted to seat Senator Newberry."

of phrases can accomplish anything but temporary misinformation. "Venomous Vindication." "No smoke cloud of venomous vindication can obscure the clear, outstanding facts which bring their own conviction when once an impartial mind or heart will give to them consideration."

"The Senate declared to the country: "I. That Henry Ford, who sought, with the aid of the then President of the United States, to run in Michigan as a Democrat on the Democratic ticket at the primary, and at the same time and in the same election to run as a Republican on the Republican ticket, was not elected by the people of Michigan as United States Senator, though Mr. Ford vehemently contended that he was so elected, and again and again charged that the ballots were miscounted and that voters were intimidated and bribed and that the result of any recount or examination could prove his right to the seat in the Senate."

"Every one of these charges was not only absolutely unproven, but was entirely dropped, even by the counsel for the contestant, Mr. Ford himself, so that one fact that remains absolutely beyond contradiction is that Henry Ford was not elected the Senator from the State of Michigan in the November election of 1918."

"The Senate declared to the country in effect that when the people of Michigan came to the general election in November, 1918, to determine whom they desired as their representative in the Senate of the United States, they approached the decision of that question with a full knowledge of everything that happened in the primary election in which Henry Ford had been nominated on the Democratic ticket and Truman H. Newberry on the Republican ticket. The people of Michigan had before them all the evidence that $125,000 had been spent in the Newberry primary campaign. This fact was public property. It was published everywhere. It was the main campaign charge which the Democratic party made in the general election and the people of Michigan had it told to them over and over again in every conceivable form, and yet with full knowledge of all these facts, so far as Michigan is concerned, the people indicated by substantial majority that Newberry was their choice, and not Ford. They read: (a) That Newberry was a loyal American, serving in the navy of his country; that he had three stars on his family service flag, and they compared this record with the record of Henry Ford."

"(b) They knew Newberry was absent from the State of Michigan during the entire campaign and that all the money spent in connection with his primary campaign was spent entirely by his friends and without his knowledge in their determination to escape the menace of a Ford election, and not the money, directly or indirectly, of Truman H. Newberry. The Attorney General of the United States when asked whether the money which had been spent in the campaign was the money of Newberry or not was honest and frank enough to at once reply that it was the money which the friends of Newberry spent and not the funds of Mr. Newberry himself. They knew the fact was precisely as indicated on the floor of the Senate in the address which was delivered by Senator Newberry himself."

"The people of Michigan knew the truth about the danger of Henry Ford and the desirability of Truman H. Newberry could not have been known to the 3,458,000 people in Michigan without the widest publicity and they knew, as every other sensible man knew, that such publicity required an expenditure of money and that for this publicity the friends of Newberry had to pay and did pay."

"They knew that Ford was getting five times as much publicity as Newberry was getting, and without cost to Ford because of his industrial connections which gave him an inside hold on publicity; they knew that the great cost of the Newberry primary campaign was for publicity and was commendable, and they knew what the Senate of the United States now knows, that there was no corruption or bribery in the expenditure of a single dollar of the campaign."

"Theodore Roosevelt, with all the facts of the Michigan primary election before him, wrote on Oct. 22, 1918, a fair statement of the way multitudes of people in Michigan felt."

"Michigan is facing the test, clear cut and without a shadow of a chance for misunderstanding, between patriotism and Americanism on one side, and on the other, pacifism and that foolish sham cosmopolitanism, which thinks it clever to deride the American flag and to proclaim that it would as soon be a Hindu or Chinaman as an American."

"If there should be at any time in the future a Hindu Senate and it should choose in a spirit of cosmopolitanism to admit outsiders, there is no reason why Mr. Ford should not aspire to membership therein; but he would be signing out of place in the American Senate so long as that body is dominated by men who zealously believe in the American ideal and faithfully endeavor to serve the American people and the American Republic."

M. Poincare Leaving Elysee Palace After Accepting President Millerand's Invitation to Form New Ministry

politanism to admit outsiders, there is no reason why Mr. Ford should not aspire to membership therein; but he would be signing out of place in the American Senate so long as that body is dominated by men who zealously believe in the American ideal and faithfully endeavor to serve the American people and the American Republic."

He read the Newberry-Willis resolution which seated Newberry, but disapproved the large cost of his campaign, and added: "Any man who can vote for that declaration and in the same breath seek to justify the beneficiary of the act thus condemned, is possessed of an amount of 'nerve' that would do credit to a first-class orthodox devil."

Answering the contention that the people of Michigan had vindicated Newberry, Reed said: "My understanding is that Mr. Newberry squeezed through by about 4000 plurality and that the other men running on the ticket with him came through with something like 150,000 plurality. That is not a ratification; it is a condemnation. When 146,000 men will repudiate the nominee of their party in a hot political campaign it is a condemnation in itself."

"Again, the Senator tells us that Newberry was absent, and did not know what was being done. 'I have thought that the American ideal was pure; that no matter how, in practical life, we might err or step aside, the great ideal of our nation was a thing as resplendent as the sun, as pure as the unspotted snow, as clean as the soul of a babe; that it aspired to great and noble things; that it desired to perpetuate and keep forever erect the foundations of our public life; that it involved even the element of sacrifice for others; that the American ideal pointed always with the finger of an angel to higher planes, to nobler aspirations, to greater achievements, to the State and to the perpetuity of free Government are the American ideal.'"

Reed, replying, called the Spencer statement "a very interesting apology and post-mortem examination."

"I do not intend to review the evidence in the Newberry case," he said, "because I have a written confession signed and sealed by the majority party, and conspicuous among election was harmful to the dignity of the Senate, it was dangerous to the perpetuity of free government, and therefore I will not accept the results. I will repudiate the acts of those who expended this money, and when I repudiate their acts in expending the money I will repudiate the benefit of those acts."

"Continuing, Reed said, in part: 'The Senator says that this election was held according to the American ideal. Is it the American ideal that elections shall be held in which I repudiate the acts of those who expended this money, and when I repudiate their acts in expending the money I will repudiate the benefit of those acts.'"

"If that is the Senator's conception of the American ideal, then I should like to have him tell me what sort of an ideal exists in the brain and heart of Satan himself. 'If you had said of the archfiend that his ideal was and is that elections should be held in such manner as to be 'dangerous to the perpetuity of the free Government,' I could understand how that sort of an ideal might be ascribed to the devil himself. But I cannot understand how any man could so abuse the word 'ideal,' as to say that this election, thus condemned in the language of the resolution, is in accordance with the American ideal.'"

Reed's Conception of the Ideal.
"I have thought that the American ideal was pure; that no matter how, in practical life, we might err or step aside, the great ideal of our nation was a thing as resplendent as the sun, as pure as the unspotted snow, as clean as the soul of a babe; that it aspired to great and noble things; that it desired to perpetuate and keep forever erect the foundations of our public life; that it involved even the element of sacrifice for others; that the American ideal pointed always with the finger of an angel to higher planes, to nobler aspirations, to greater achievements, to the State and to the perpetuity of free Government are the American ideal."

"Let the Senator picture his own ideal. I prefer another. My opinion is that this election, thus condemned in the language of the resolution, is in accordance with the American ideal."

INVOICES FIGURED ON PITTSBURG PLUS BASIS ARE READ

Two Officials of Milwaukee Manufacturing Concern Testify at Hearing of Trade Commission.

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 3.—Further testimony on the operation of Pittsburgh plus practice in the steel industry as it affects Western manufacturing plants renewed previous charges of discrimination before the Federal Trade Commission yesterday. Two officials of the Heil Co. of Milwaukee, were on the stand, much of their testimony substantiating that of Julius P. Heil, vice president, who appeared earlier this week.

Invoices and contracts of the Heil concern were introduced by C. J. Heil, purchasing agent, and admitted to the record, covering the protest of counsel for the United States Steel Corporation, which, with its subsidiaries, is the respondent in the commission's investigation. Analysis of these bills, Heil declared, all of them represented a base price in Pittsburgh with freight charges from Pittsburgh to Milwaukee added.

The steel purchased on these invoices was in some cases shipped from South Chicago and in several instances was hauled from Milwaukee by rail, plants by the Heil Co. trucks. It is the practice of charging a Pittsburgh price plus freight charges from Pittsburgh to the point of delivery which the commission alleges is discriminatory. The vagueness of testimony given by F. R. Nanscawen, service manager for the company, after much questioning, caused W. W. Corbett, general solicitor for the Steel Corporation, to move that his entire testimony be stricken from the record "because of his lack of knowledge of the details of business."

Commissioner Houston Thompson, however, denied the motion. The invoices introduced by Heil were from independent mills located in Chicago, Cleveland, Indiana Harbor and Buffalo. All of them quoted prices on a Pittsburgh basis, however, Heil said. Attorney Corbett objected to admitting the invoices because the companies are not named in the present investigation, but K. E. Steinhauer, attorney for the commission, declared he proposed to show that the Pittsburgh plus system was a general practice which tended to lessen competition and the documents were put into the record.

Nanscawen's testimony developed no new points, except an admission, under cross-examination, that the company's sales prices were figured on the cost of materials, in which was included the Pittsburgh freight charges, and that on this basis, the Heil company was unable to compete with other manufacturers in New York. Previous witnesses have testified that because of Pittsburgh plus they could not compete with firms east of Pittsburgh.

Earlier in the session, the Commissioner handed down a ruling on testimony as to company profits, by which the corporation counsel was barred from delving too deeply into the earnings of concerns whose officials appeared on the stand.

In the case of Carl F. Garry of the E. R. Wagner Manufacturing Co., Milwaukee, Attorney Corbett sought to ascertain the company's profits and dividends on all its business. Garry had testified that he was forced to cut his profit from 7 to 5 per cent, and that he had lost money in the process.

Attorney Corbett asked if the witness did not select this item because it showed a small percentage of profit, which the witness denied, and extended his questioning to other lines, but when Garry declined to answer as a point of personal privilege, he was sustained by the Commissioner.

It is that this is the Senator's ideal of a partnership that justifies everything if it only will bring votes to a party. Oh, yes; I am justified in saying that. He says the rule of reason must apply; that Ford had money, Ford advertised in newspapers and hence, applying the rule of reason to the case in hand, it was entirely right and justifiable to expend this money. Let us see where that will land us."

"This first was not a question of seating Mr. Ford if Mr. Newberry was unelected. The resolution offered from this side of the chamber declared that Henry Ford had not been elected. If there was anything in the statement made by the Senator as to Ford's money or his influence it would avail him nothing. Nobody here proposed to seat Henry Ford, for the very good reason that he did not have a plurality of votes. But, second, as a underwriter and a rotten that they are a menace to the State and to the perpetuity of free Government are the American ideal."

"Let the Senator picture his own ideal. I prefer another. My opinion is that this election, thus condemned in the language of the resolution, is in accordance with the American ideal."

Political Fireworks Set Off in Massachusetts by Dry Agent Who Raided Republican Dinner

Split in Ranks of Bay State Politicians Expected as Result of Fight Started by Prohibition Enforcement Officer.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Feb. 3.—Harold D. Wilson, who was summarily "fired" from the office of Prohibition Enforcement Agent a few days ago, is the political gadfly of the hour in Massachusetts. Wilson is riding Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, two Congressmen, Revenue Commissioner Blair and the Republican boss, Charles H. Innes, and local political sharps are waiting to see whether the gadfly will hang on and scatter the Republican ranks as he has threatened to do.

Wilson's firebrand activities, chief among them the raiding, some time ago, of a dinner to Gov. Channing Cox, at which Wilson was on the staff, as the stuff that runs in rivers, have already arrayed against each other powerful forces within the Republican ranks.

Wilson, although ejected by Blair, appeared in court yesterday ready to prosecute what he termed "the disgraceful liquor party" in the Quincy House, carrying a large supply of cognac in his pocket and in his pockets a considerable amount of the liquor seized at the famous event.

Whether or not Wilson runs for office at the State elections next fall—and on this point he is undecided—he appears to have struck a gaping chasm between certain elements in the Republican party. On his side stands Lieut. Alvan T. Fuller, who has declared that Wilson was removed for doing his duty, and the almost united church forces of the State. On the other side, a general solicitor for the Steel Corporation, to move that his entire testimony be stricken from the record "because of his lack of knowledge of the details of business."

Against him Wilson has chosen to array, through his own fire-eating attacks in print and public meetings, Senator Lodge (who comes up for re-election next fall), several Republican Congressmen, Commissioner Blair, ex-Senator Charles H. Innes, Republican power-behind-the-throne in the Bay State, and, tacitly, Gov. Cox, who chanced to be the guest of honor when quarts of whiskey and fancy cocktails were dragged out of the Quincy House by Wilson's ruthless agents.

Has Legion Support.
Wilson also is believed to have in his retinue a strong following in the membership of the American Legion, which vigorously supported him, but the Anti-Saloon League, which backed him for the Federal dry office, appears to have deserted him. Wilson's troubles began about six months ago, when he was appointed to the prohibition enforcement office. He was picked by the local branch of the Anti-Saloon League, as was Co-Executive Director Potter, and Senator Lodge approved the selections.

At that time the organization of the prohibition department in New England was such that an enforcement agent or raiding officer, was in charge of activities throughout New England, while the director's sphere was the issuing and investigation of permits in the State of Massachusetts. Potter was picked for the agent's job and Wilson was appointed director. The former is a quiet, modest man of over 50, while Wilson is an outspoken, impulsive hustler of about 35 years.

Both men had been in office but a few days when the national reorganization took place, all prohibition activities being centered under a single head with each State a separate unit. Potter was made prohibition director and Wilson was transferred to the enforcement agent's job, as an assistant to Potter.

Refuses Transfer.
Wilson promptly rebelled at being sidetracked. He refused to accept the transfer or to turn over to Potter the papers in his office. Instead he went to Washington and raised a rump among officials, which was magnified by hundreds of letters that began to pour in upon Senator Lodge and Massachusetts Congressmen from church supporters of Wilson all over the State.

Senator Lodge got Wilson's salary raised to equal Potter's, and the department agreed to let Wilson hire and fire his own men without the consent of the State. But the seeds of a Potter-Wilson hatred had taken root and the seeds began to grow in the Republican front yard. "Not only was Wilson's salary raised, but he was given the right to hire and fire his own men without the consent of the State. But the seeds of a Potter-Wilson hatred had taken root and the seeds began to grow in the Republican front yard."

Wilson and a force of agents arrived about 10 p. m., and in the words of Rev. A. L. Conrad, "unconsciously interrupted the Bazaar feast and Bacchanalian orgy." Wilson claims that "Charles H. Innes, the leading Republican boss, was rustling in the outside door," dining in the room of glorious and unvarnished refreshment. Wilson's agents confiscated the liquor, defying "politicians" who tried to dissuade him.

Then it developed that the liquor had been transported to the Quincy House on a permit issued by Director Potter's office to Harold E. Korn, who claimed that he was "changing his legal residence."

No such volcanic eruption has taken place in Bay State politics for a generation. Officials who were erroneously reported as being present frantically denied it. Others who were there disclaimed knowledge of law breaking. St. C. T. surer James J. Leary delivered his now famous three-line epic, "I saw no liquor; I got none; but I got there later."

Politicians threatened to "get" Wilson. The latter's activity became feverish. It was, he felt, a "cut and paste" of every newspaper ever day. He issued statements charging that he was being hampered in his work. His office, first widely separated from Potter's, was moved into the directors' hallway and Wilson was given a single small room for his entire force.

In a public speech before a ministers' meeting, Wilson, who is president of the Boston Churchmen's Union, declared that he was being hampered in his work, attacked Potter and invited the ministers to make an investigation, which they did. Wilson and Potter were called to Washington, but declined to make up. Wilson was offered a "general prohibition agent's post under Commissioner Haynes or quitting altogether."

Two Congressmen Named.
With a few days' leave to think it over, Wilson came back and made more public attacks, which were being shelved. He named Congressman Tinkham and Winslow as men actively against him. Last Friday night Blair "fired" Wilson and appointed James P. Rohrer, then a revenue agent, to succeed him.

The political consequences of Wilson's flare-up are being generally debated. Lieutenant-Governor Fuller deplored Wilson's removal, saying "he was doing his duty." Political sharps think Fuller will run for Senator against Lodge, on whom Wilson has sworn vengeance. Although the Anti-Saloon League officially named Wilson's successor, the big body of church people are believed to stand behind Wilson and have served notice on the politicians.

Plans to Write Book.
Former Agent Wilson has not made public his immediate plans, save to announce that he will write a book telling of the Quincy House episode. He is also planning to write a book about the Quincy House episode, which he encountered. And in a statement today, following another hearing in which eminent counsel are trying to get the raiders' case out of court, Wilson declared: "If those responsible for the disgraceful liquor party in the Quincy House, Dec. 29 are able to set aside the search warrant used in the raid through the employment of high-class attorneys and the use of far-fetched legal technicalities, that fact will be a great blow to law and order in the Commonwealth. More than 1000 minor culprits were to escape after staging a similar 'travesty.'"

Wilson tried to drag Vice President Coolidge on the law and order issue, but Calvin T. THE SILENT did not reply to his telegram.

TIDEWATER ASSOCIATION CONFERENCE CALLED FEB. 9

Campaign for Funds to Improve St. Lawrence River Chief Topic for Discussion.

DULUTH, Minn., Feb. 3.—Writing that "we now are dealing with a known situation when up to this time we have been feeling our way," Charles P. Craig, executive director of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association has notified the members of the council of state to be present at a conference Feb. 9 in Chicago. Governors from at least half of the 18 states in the council are expected to be present.

The State which belong to the council are: Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho and Oregon.

The conference was called to plan and direct the final stages of the campaign to encourage governmental authorization of funds to improve the St. Lawrence River so that ocean-going vessels may pass through to Duluth, thus opening a new route to the sea.

horities have built some huge barracks there to accommodate a cavalry regiment. This building cost the trifle of 30,000,000 marks, to be paid, of course, by the German Government. ## SECOND POST-DISPATCH CONCERT TOMORROW

Conductor Ganz of Symphony Will Explain Numbers to Be Played by Orchestra.

The second Post-Dispatch free concert for school children, by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, will be given in the Missouri Theater, Grand and Lucas avenues, tomorrow morning, beginning at 10:30.

The program will be:

1. Triumphal March, "Glory to Egypt" from "Aida," Verdi.
2. Second Movement, "Largo," from Symphony No. 5, in E Minor, "From the New World"—Dvorak.
3. "Spring Song"—Mendelssohn.
4. Two Intermezzi from "The Jewels of the Madonna"—Wolff-Ferrari.
5. Selections from Ballet Suite from "Sylvia"—Debussy.
- (a) Intermezzo and valse lento.
- (b) Pizzicati.
- (c) Cortège de Bacchus.

Admission will be by ticket only. As tickets to the capacity of the theater were issued last Saturday, tickets issued for the first concert will not be honored. Those who failed to get tickets for tomorrow's concert should wait for the distribution of tickets for the next concert, Feb. 18, the time and places of which will be announced next week.

As at the first concert, Conductor Ganz of the orchestra will give a talk on the program, explaining the character of the selections and the interpretation of them by the orchestra. This will not be a formal discourse on music, but a short, chatty talk which will help everyone to understand and enjoy the selections.

The concert is number two in the series, which was announced by the Post-Dispatch in its Christmas day issue, as a Christmas gift to the children of St. Louis. The children to whom tickets have been distributed are pupils of the public, parochial and private schools, 10 years old and more. Tomorrow's concert, that of Feb. 18, and the final one March 18, are for white children. A concert for the children of the negro schools will be given in the evening, March 4.

"PEG O' MY HEART" GIVEN WITH SMOOTHNESS BY STUDENTS

Performance to Be Repeated To-night for Benefit of Soldiers in Hospitals.

"Peg O' My Heart," J. Hartley Hargrove's charming comedy of youth, was presented last night at the Pershing Theater by a group of Washington University students under auspices of the Shell and Anchor society, an organization of students, which has a sincere and sympathetic interest in the welfare of the war-torn.

Miss Mignon Rosenblatt, as Peg, the warm-hearted but mischievous little Irish girl whose fidelity to the democratic principles of her father is a source of much pain to Mrs. Hester, her apostate English aunt, essayed her role with marked effectiveness.

Hardly less convincing were Miss Myrtle Downing as the aunt; and Miss Mae Green as Ethel, the bored and selfish daughter. R. E. Riddle, as Alaric, the silly "gentleman" son of Mrs. Hester, cavorted amusingly, and D. W. Bok performed the triple function of guard-dog, executor and suitor with ability. Other parts were taken by J. E. McKinley, J. P. Ridgeway, J. E. Wray and Miss Mary Monahan.

The production will be repeated tonight, the proceeds from both performances going into a benefit fund for disabled former service men now in St. Louis hospitals. The attendance last night was small.

HARRY FRENCH KNIGHT AND BRIDE ARRIVE IN ST. LOUIS

Dinner Is Given for Friends at Their New Home on Evening After Arrival.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry French Knight, who were married Jan. 19 at the bride's winter home, "Glen Oaks," Montefiore, Cal., arrived yesterday from their honeymoon. They are living at 42 Westmoreland place. They had dinner last evening with friends.

Knight is a St. Louisan and had lived for a number of years at the St. Louis Club. He is a member of the investment firm of Knight, Gamble & Co. His bride was Mrs. Lora Josephine Moore, Chicago millionaire, from whom she inherited the greater part of his $10,000,000 estate.

When the marriage license was applied for in California, Knight gave the ages of both as 27.

H. H. HARTMANN DIES AT 93

Request That Ashes Be Strewn Over Rural Land Will Be Carried Out.

The request of Hubert H. Hartmann, 93 years old, of 1717 Ohio avenue, who died at the home of his son, George Hartmann, in Alton, early yesterday, that his body be cremated and the ashes strewn over the family burial lot at Belleville will be carried out following cremation at Valhalla Crematory this afternoon.

Hartmann came to St. Louis from Germany when 16 years old, serving through the cholera epidemic here as a druggist. He was also a member of an early volunteer fire company. He later went to Belleville, organized the Star Brewery of that city and was associated with the city and was Belleville distillery. He retired from business 14 years ago and returned to St. Louis. Three daughters and four sons survive.

HOLLIDAY-LUCAS WEDDING TOMORROW

One of Notable Events of Season to Take Place at Home of Prospective Bride's Sister.

ONE of the notable weddings of the season will take place at 5 p. m. tomorrow, when Miss Elizabeth Holliday becomes the bride of Charles Lucas, at the home of Mrs. Charles E. Bascom, the bride's sister, 52 Portland place. The ceremony, which will be performed by the Rev. Father Francis Gilligan of the New Cathedral, will take place before a house of flowers and palms which has been built in front of the French doors in the dining room of the Bascom home. A dinner will follow.

The bride will be attended by Mrs. Bascom as matron of honor. Her other attendants will be Mrs. John A. Hart, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Stuart M. Butler, Miss Eleanor Standard and Miss Roberta Morton Lucas will attend his brother as best man, and the groomsmen will be John Keeshan, Theodore Fowler, Taylor Bryan and Frederick H. Coester.

The Bride's Gown.

The bride's gown is of cream satin, trimmed with quantities of old rose point lace, which is a family heirloom. It is made with a basque effect. The neckline has been cut quite low and round, and filled in to a square with the lace over chiffon. The skirt is formed with two pieces of the rose point lace attached to the lowered waistline in the front and draped to one side, and caught with a large pearl ornament. The short sleeves are also of the rose point.

A court train, four yards long, of satin, lined with georgette and weighted with orange blossoms, will be suspended from the shoulders by pearl ornaments with festoons, giving a draped effect. The bride's veil of tulle will be held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms, and she will carry a shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Bascom will wear a gown of pale pink satin covered with pink chiffon. The bodice has a foundation of silver lace veiled in pink chiffon in surplus effect. The flounces of chiffon on the skirt form a cascade of points at either side, and the waistline is finished at the back with a huge bow of chiffon, the ends of which extend into two slender trains.

Gowns of the Attendants.

The bride's other attendants will wear gowns of French blue chiffon over peach-colored satin, fashioned like Mrs. Bascom's. They will all wear large picture hats of pale pink horsehair braid with a cascade of drapery and adorned with a single rose. Their flowers will be pink butterfly roses.

Miss Holliday is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph G. Holliday, 6249 Catalpa avenue. She was educated at Mary Institute and served as maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball the year of her debut. She is a member of the Junior League.

Mr. Lucas is the son of Mr. J. B. C. Lucas of 4434 Forest Park boulevard. He is a graduate of St. Louis University and served as a lieutenant in the army during the war. He is a member of the University and Racquet clubs.

After a honeymoon trip Mr. Lucas and his bride will be at home at 687 Kingsbury boulevard.

The marriage of Miss Hermoine Gowans, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Gowans, 6013 Catalpa avenue, and Herbert Arthur Strain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Strain, 6022 McPherson avenue will take place at 8:30 Feb. 27 at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. Dr. William L. Loupe of the West Presbyterian Church officiating. A reception will follow the ceremony. The bride will be attended by her sister, Miss Mary Eugenia Gowans, as maid of honor, and Miss Marion Strain, sister of the bridegroom, will be bridesmaid. The flower girl will be Florence Louise Baumann, a cousin of the bride.

Edgar C. Thurely will attend Mr. Strain as best man and the groomsmen will be William R. Watts, William R. Talbert and Ralph M. James. Mr. Strain and his bride will make their home temporarily with Dr. and Mrs. Gowans. Two additional parties have been planned for Miss Gowans. On Feb. 14 Misses Helen Dunnagan and Helen Crawford will entertain with a bridge party at the home of the former, 5845 Catalpa avenue, and Miss Ida McRoberts will give a similar affair Feb. 23 at her home, 1221 Pendleton avenue.

Miss Elizabeth Smith of 4502 Maryland avenue entertained very informally at bridge this afternoon for Miss Agnes Scorer of Richmond, Va., who is the friend of Miss Julia Pay Carlon. Miss Scorer will depart Saturday for her home.

Mrs. Frank P. Crunden of 4426 Westmoreland place will entertain tomorrow evening with another of a series of musicales she is giving this winter. Leo Miller will speak concert program, and will give musical illustrations. There are about 20 guests at each affair.

Mrs. George Nicoll of 4573 McPherson avenue will entertain with a tea this afternoon in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Richard Kimbrough Peck of New York, who, with her children, will remain in St. Louis as the guest of her parents for the next month. About 200 guests will call.

SHE WILL BE MAID OF HONOR AT U. D. C. BALL

Miss Annie Laurie Bloodworth.

between 4 and 6 o'clock, and those who will assist the hostesses are Misses H. R. Murray, W. M. Taggart, William S. Thomas, Arthur Howell, Calvin Christy, J. L. Hopkins, Clarence Nidderhous, Lloyd Wright, Eleanor Coochener, Misses Leonora Strassberger, Alice Ladd and Lucy Taggart.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Davis of 13 Westmoreland place will entertain with a dinner dance this evening at the St. Louis Country Club.

The French "Salon" will meet Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Samuel Lazarus, 4481 West Pine boulevard. Mme. Pernet McCarthy will give a talk on Pointe d'art and a reading on "Georgios Lemeunier" by Maurice Donnay.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Murphy of the Netherby Apartments departed yesterday to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gamble and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Thomson in Cincinnati, O.

Miss Annie Laurie Bloodworth of the Hamilton Hotel will be one of the maids of honor at the annual ball of the U. D. C. to be given Feb. 10 in the ballroom of Hotel Statler.

Mrs. Mildred O. Beaton of 506 Clara avenue will entertain the members of the Friday Bridge Club with a luncheon this afternoon. She will be assisted by Miss Mamie Woodcock of Salisbury, Md.

The St. Louis Tercentenary Shakespeare Society will organize a class under the direction of Dr. Robert Hall Atchison which will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 in the St. Louis Art League rooms at the Planters' Hotel. All of the members of the society are invited to join. Dr. Atchison has taught Shakespeare and literature in several colleges.

Mrs. William J. Porter of 5381 Pershing avenue will leave St. Louis Monday for New York, where she will join Misses Lucile and Maude Brooks, Marion Laessig and Mary Younglove, who are visiting in the East. The party will sail Feb. 11 for a cruise of the Mediterranean.

Miss Omega Mae Gregory of 7243 Dale avenue and Richmond Heights, departed Wednesday for Los Angeles, where she will be the guest of her sister for several months. After a tour of the West she will return to St. Louis June 1.

The Century Boat Club announces an informal dance to be given tomorrow evening, a Valentine party, Feb. 11, an anniversary dance, formal, Feb. 18, and another informal dance Feb. 25.

SUZANNE LENGLEN PLAYING TENNIS AGAIN—IN SECRET

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Deserting the golf links, which had tempted her for a short time, Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen has returned to her beloved tennis court.

But she plays in secret. No one but members of her family and her intimate friends are allowed to enter her attempts to regain her legendary mastery of the game. She is still supposed to be in feeble health and is so nervous that sometimes the racket slips from her hand.

Nevertheless, Mlle. Suzanne dreams of encountering her old rival, Mrs. Mallory, again; but not in America. Mlle. Suzanne has sworn she will never return to the Atlantic again. If her health improves sufficiently, however, she will go to Wimbledon next spring and there the quest of her parents for the next month. About 200 guests will call.

SYMPHONY RESENTS HEIFETZ'S DATE CUTTING

Committee Officially Protests Against Circumstances of Violinist's Canceling Engagement.

As has been published in the Post-Dispatch, the authorities of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra resent the fact that Jascha Heifetz, Russian violinist, canceled his engagement to appear as soloist with the orchestra at its concert of Jan. 20 and 21. Their attitude is announced officially in the following statement, made public today:

"The Executive Committee of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra protests against the cancellation by Jascha Heifetz of his engagement to appear as soloist with the orchestra at its concert of Jan. 20 and 21. Their attitude is announced officially in the following statement, made public today:

"Three days after this cancellation, which was announced as the outcome of a consultation of doctors, Mr. Heifetz appeared in recital in both Chicago and Milwaukee. The fact that he kept on playing in public after canceling our date is the reason of this protest.

"Mr. Heifetz canceled the engagement 10 days prior to the date fixed for his appearance, saying that he was physically tired out and not feeling well, and could not possibly come to St. Louis.

"Instead of engaging another artist to fill the place left vacant by the cancellation of Mr. Heifetz, the Executive Committee decided to have Mr. Ganz present another purely orchestral program on Feb. 17 and 18, this being the last purely orchestral program of the season."

MRS. ASQUITH'S ACTIVITIES AROUSE INTEREST IN BRITAIN

By JAMES M. TUOHY.
(Copyright, 1932.)

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Between the amusing accounts of Mrs. Asquith's first public appearance in London, the public lecturer, the rumors that her husband is resigning the leadership of the Liberal party and the first activities of the Princess Bibesco's book, the Asquith family plays a large and varied part in the papers.

Mrs. Asquith's nerve was never doubted, but her dauntless encounter with the interviewers, her glacial calm in the face of her extraordinary experience as a public reader have made her almost popular. Her persistent reticence about Mr. Lloyd George has greatly interested the public here, and the Morning Post makes the suggestion that if she could be induced to deliver a series of lectures on the Premier "No American woman east or west would ask to have her money returned."

The Princess Bibesco's first essay in fiction has rather startled the reviewers by its handling of sex problems, but all agree on its cleverness and promise.

MISS MARY TRIPLETT HONORED
Miss Mary Triplett, 456 Newstead avenue, was made honorary secretary for life of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church of Missouri, at the annual meeting last week at Columbia, Mo. She will have a place and vote on the executive board for life. The resolution making Miss Triplett honorary secretary was introduced by Mrs. E. F. Cushing of the Episcopal Church of Missouri, and was voted on by the board for life. The resolution making Miss Triplett honorary secretary was introduced by Mrs. E. F. Cushing of the Episcopal Church of Missouri, and was voted on by the board for life.

Miss Louise Kroege will appear in recital with Ernest R. Kroeger at the piano next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock before the Wednesday Club. Members of the Players will present a two-act comedy, "The Man Who Married a Jumbie Wife," translated by Curtis Hidden Page for Granville Barker, from the French of Anatole France. Blanchard O. McKee is director and the Patisson is chairman of the Productions Committee.

Morning Etude Program.
A literary and musical program under the auspices of the Morning Etude will be presented tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the Vandervort auditorium by Miss Anna Craig Bates and Carleton Everett Knox. The public is invited.

College Club.
Miss Irene Pettit will review Leonard Merrick's "Conrad in Quest of His Youth," before members of the College Club at their clubhouse, 5428 Delmar boulevard, next Tuesday at 3 p. m. A tea will follow the program.

Catholic Women's Association.
"Amendments to the Constitution" will be discussed by Andrew C. Maroney, at the regular meeting of the Catholic Women's Association, Tuesday, at its headquarters, 505 North Seventh street.

St. Louis Parliamentary Club.
The St. Louis Parliamentary Club will meet next Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the Vandervort auditorium. Mrs. N. P. Zimmer will be the subject of the evening, "The Current Topics in Parliamentary Law."

Class in Weaving.
A public class in weaving will be given by the Missouri Association for Occupational Therapy, 3510 Washington avenue, in which women not only will be taught to weave rugs and their ties, but also learn to weave housemen for their spring suits. The class will be instructed by Miss Jane Larabee, who has had years of experience in weaving both in this country and in England. She is instructor of weaving for the training school of the association, and the students are turning out many beautiful articles in which original designs and color combinations are shown. Details of the class may be learned by consulting Miss Idelle Kidder, director of the Missouri Association for Occupational Therapy.

PRINCETON TEACHER COMPARES CRITICS OF BIBLE TO THE FLEA
CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—People who criticize the Bible are like the shoe-mend who sign reads: "Shoe repaired while you wait," Prof. Robert Wilson of Princeton University today told students and clergymen at the Moody Bible Institute.

"The trouble with these modern critics of an age-old religion," he said, "is that, in whatever conclusion they arrive in their theory of accounting for the universe and life of the earth, they reserve the privilege of changing overnight. They are like the evanescent flea. You think you have him and he is not there."

John J. O'Fallon, 85 years old, member of one of the older families of the city and head of the estate which sold O'Fallon park to St. Louis, is in a serious condition at his home, 23 Westmoreland place. He became ill last Monday. It was stated at the residence today that his condition was no worse than yesterday.

A Request to the Chief of Police of St. Louis—

I know that it is your earnest endeavor to give the people of St. Louis the best protection that is within your power.

I also know that you try to protect life and property, and that you furnish extra police protection when it is requested of you.

With this point in view, may I be permitted to request that, during the coming week, starting tomorrow at one-thirty o'clock, you increase the police protection at the Fox-Liberty Theater, on Delmar near Grand avenue.

I ask this for the reason that a super-dramatic achievement will be shown at the Fox-Liberty Theater during the coming week, and the name of this tremendous masterpiece is

"Ten Nights in a Barroom"

There will be a great need for extra police to handle the thousands who are going to visit the Fox-Liberty Theater and see one of the greatest human appeal dramas the world has ever known.

I know that if you give this your personal attention, and if you yourself could be present and see this dramatic achievement, you would immediately grant my request.

Yours very sincerely,
HARRY GREENMAN.

Remember the date—Tomorrow at one-thirty o'clock at the Fox-Liberty Theater on Delmar near Grand, and the attraction is

SPENCER AND REED IN CLASH OVER
NEWBERRY CASE

It is done in behalf of a Republican candidate.

"The Senator said there was reason for this great expenditure, that they had to beat Henry Ford, and because they had to beat Henry Ford, therefore, applying—the rule of reason—and now I quote the Senator's language—the expenditure of practically any sum of money was commendable—that is to say, the Senator does not like Henry Ford, he does not approve of Henry Ford, and when he does not approve of a man, then the expenditure of practically any sum of money whatsoever is commendable—quoting his language.

"Then why did you not say so in your resolution—if the expenditure of practically any sum of money was commendable—why, in the name of common sense, did you not say so in your resolution instead of saying that—whether the amount expended in the primary was $195,000 or more, the amount expended was in either case much larger than ought to have been expended?"

"Again, we are told that Mr. Newberry is a Christian gentleman. I do not know anything about the religion of Mr. Newberry. But when I find those who make great professions of Christianity saying upon the floor of the Senate that the expenditure of almost any sum of money would have been justifiable; when I find that only a day or two ago they voted that the expenditure of $195,000 was an offense to the Senate and was dangerous to the republic, I wonder how many times gentlemen of that kind will have to ask forgiveness for abusing the words 'Christian gentleman'."

"I think, if I know anything about the tenets of the Christian religion, it commands men to be honest; it commands men to be just.

"It is written, 'Thou shalt not steal' and every line of it from the Ten Commandments and the divine Sermon on the Mount down to the last word of the Revelations, commands that all men, at all times, and in all places, shall observe the rules of rectitude and honor, and that they shall not be guilty of conduct that is dangerous to the perpetuity of free government."

"Which one of the Ten Commandments recites 'Thou shalt do acts contrary to the perpetuity of free government'?"

"What one of the apostles has ever declared that a man, in seeking public office, should do acts calculated to destroy the fabric of the greatest Government ever erected by the hands of man, under the providence and guidance of God? What part of the shorter catechism recites that a man may get office by means destructive to the State? "Who has written this infamous thing into the creed of Christianity before the Senator from Missouri introduced it a few moments ago?"

INSPECTION OF SHAVING BRUSHES IS ORDERED

Consignment Imported Recently Was Infected With Anthrax—
Some Sent to Missouri.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 3.—Deputy State Health Commissioners in each of the 114 counties of Missouri were instructed by State Health Commissioner Enloe, in a letter sent out today, to inspect drug stores and other stores in their counties to see if shaving brushes distributed by three designated wholesale houses are on sale there.
This action followed telegraphic advice from the United States Surgeon-General that a recent importation of shaving brushes into the United States had been found to be infected with anthrax. Commissioner Enloe was informed that a part of this importation has been sent to Missouri and is being distributed through the three designated wholesale houses, the names of which were not made public.

Youth Suffering From Anthrax Improves After Serum Treatment.
The recovery of George Schreck, 15 years old, of 2740 Cherokee street, who is suffering from anthrax, is expected by physicians at the city hospital, where he is undergoing treatment with antianthrax serum.
The first serum was administered to him yesterday, after a quantity of it had been provided by the local branch of a chemical concern, and physicians said he would receive an injection daily until well.

The patient's fever had dropped this morning and his condition was noticeably improved, his physicians said.
As has been told, Schreck is believed to have contracted the disease from a horsehair shaving brush which he purchased recently at a drug store. The store's stock of similar brushes was confiscated by the Health Department.

Two guinea pigs which were inoculated with a bacterial culture produced from Schreck's infection, died today, 24 hours after inoculation. Health Commissioner Starkloff said this confirmed absolutely the diagnosis of Schreck's ailment

BROKERAGE FAILURE LAID TO BLIND THEFT

Dier Company's Business Ruined
From Inside, Former Employee Tells U. S. Investigator.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Failure of the brokerage firm of E. D. Dier & Co. was caused by "blind robbery from the inside," E. J. Franklin Galtner, who described himself as an outside man for the company, testified yesterday in bankruptcy proceedings before United States Commissioner Hitchcock.

Though unable to account for the vanishing of $4,000,000 of assets, largely stocks owned by customers, he accused five former employees of the firm of ruining the business by extravagance in salaries and expenses. He absolved Dier of all blame by saying he had only a hazy knowledge of the brokerage business and, almost until the crash came on Jan. 15, had no idea of the situation.

Dier never knew what became of stocks bought or sold for the firm's $500 or more customers, he said, and was unaware of the assets and liabilities of the business.

He caused considerable amusement describing the sale of $1,000,000 in stock of the El Progreso Mining Co., which Dier also promoted. He admitted that the only assets of the mining company was a contract to purchase certain undeveloped copper regions in Mexico and it would take nearly $4,000,000 to put the property in operation.

Galtner denied that he, or Dier, had shared in the spoils which he said were liberally distributed in the form of big salaries, expense accounts and special accounts. His salary was $120 a week, he said.

Carl Kneass, another former employee, admitted that, although his salary was $12,000 a year, he was merely a "stamp." His title was that of manager, he stated, but in reality he was a clerk with no discretionary powers or authority, and he signed checks and O. K'd bills automatically without troubling to investigate them.

Kneass attributed the company's downfall to extravagance, estimating that salaries alone ran up to more than $1,000,000 a year and other expenses brought the total around $2,000,000. He said he never inquired what sources of revenue the firm had. When rumors began to spread about impending disaster he resigned.

"There was gossip around the office that the firm had been speculating," he said, "and that stock bought by customers had not been delivered and stocks sent in for transfer sold. But I had no direct knowledge of any of these things."

Dier is not to be examined until Charles A. Stoneham, part owner of the New York Giants, and Ross Robertson, his former partner in the brokerage business of Stoneham & Co., who have been ordered by the court to return from Havana to appear as witnesses, have testified on Monday about the transfer of $3,000,000 of their accounts to the bankrupt firm.

OPIMUM BARRED, CHINESE TAKE TO MORPHINE USE, IS REPORT

Traffic Increased While Officials Take Percentage of Profits. Anti-Opium Associations Declare.

By the Associated Press.
PEKING, Feb. 2.—China, barred under the law from smoking opium, is fast becoming a nation of morphine users, with results more menacing to its people than the opium evil of other days, according to a statement from the Antiopium Association.

This is declared to be particularly true of Manchuria, where the drug sale is said to be in the hands of Japanese, who smuggle the drugs from Siberia.

Russians, Japanese, Chinese, Greeks, Turks and nondescript of many nationalities, numbering about 10,000, are reported to be operating on a tremendous scale, with many minor officials of the railway in their pay. Foreign women associated with the band of smugglers are said to be carrying the drug from Manchuria to Peking, where it is retailed in tea houses and other resorts.

Antiopium associations, openly charge that a percentage of the profit from the drug traffic finds its way into officials' pockets.

Italian Premier's Resignation Confuses Political Situation Seems to Be No One Eligible for Premiership Who Can Command Parliamentary Majority.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Feb. 2.—The Italian political situation has become exceedingly perplexing as the result of the resignation yesterday of the Cabinet of Premier Bonomi. Now that the Bonomi government is out, there seems to be no one eligible for the premiership who can command a working majority in Parliament.

BERLIN UNION JOINS GERMAN RAIL STRIKE

Walkout Now Complete With 77,000 Engine Drivers Out; Food Supplies Fail.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Feb. 3.—Germany's railway strike, begun Wednesday at midnight, became practically complete today, when the Berlin branch of the railway union joined. It was estimated today that 77,000 engine drivers now were striking.
Passenger and freight traffic in North Germany was at a standstill. Undelivered mail has begun to accumulate and postal authorities are maintaining aerial service. Efforts to maintain the milk and food supplies for Berlin have failed.
The Government manifesto declaring the strike illegal has aggravated the situation. The Government today flatly declined to offer mediation of the strike. It was unofficially reported at the same time that the Technische Nothilfe, organized to give emergency help in industrial crises, had offered sufficient personnel to man 200 emergency trains. This organization, which includes members of unions, is not seeking to break the strike, but to keep up sufficient business to avoid a catastrophe.

$14,289,700 ALREADY LAID OUT FOR BUILDING AT KANSAS CITY

$5,000,000 Business Structure Included in Projected Work to Be Begun When Weather Opens.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 3.—A total of $14,289,700 in building already is definitely projected in Greater Kansas City for the early months of this year, according to a summary issued yesterday by J. C. Jackson, secretary of the carpenters' union here.
A considerable part of this proposed work already is in progress, according to Jackson, who yesterday assigned work to 56 union carpenters. A revival of building eclipsing that of any previous year in half a decade will be opened with the coming of warmer weather, he said.
One of the notable features of the compilation made by Jackson is the number of costly residences to be built. The cost of many will range as high as $42,000, according to estimates made by builders. Ground will be broken for a considerable number of office and business buildings, the survey shows. One of these will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000,000.

Apartment houses, family hotels, school buildings and remodeling work is included in the tabulation of projected construction. The survey comprehends only work definitely decided on or begun during the last 60 days.

POSITION OF FARMER IS CENTER OF INTEREST ON WALL STREET

Banking Officials Turn From International Affairs to Agricultural Bloc and U. S. Economics.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Wall street's interest in the events at Washington has drifted rapidly from international affairs to the much-discussed agricultural "bloc," and the position of the farmer in the country's social and economic scheme.

Almost every recent utterance of leading banking officials has dwelt with the emphasis on this situation. The February circular of the Mechanics' and Metals' National Bank, which has many correspondents and other direct connections throughout the farming sections of the West, says, in part:

"The farmers' ill-fortune has not been a matter of overnight development. It has been a feature of increasing significance over a period of nearly two years, or since the price of foodstuffs began their long downward sweep.
"Like the hardship which has been an almost universal feature of industry and commerce in the post-war readjustment period, the hardship of agriculture has been attended by over-production, collapsed markets, blocked distribution and low prices, and has made the lot of the producer a particularly hard one. This applies alike to the corn and wheat grower of the Middle-west, the cattle producer of the western range, the cotton planter of the South and the potato farmer of new England."

AUTOMOBILE CLUB OPPOSES AN EIGHTH TAX ON OWNERS

The Automobile Club of Missouri today telegraphed Congressman Hawes and Dyer to use their efforts to defeat the proposal of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to the House Ways and Means Committee to levy a special tax on automobiles, among other things, with which to obtain revenue for the soldier's adjusted compensation plan, or bonus measure.
The telegram set forth that automobile owners are already being assessed in seven different ways in Missouri—for city license, state license, personal property, certificate of ownership, war tax, sales tax and gasoline tax—and that any additional tax would be unfair.

YOUNG ITALIAN POPE BELIEVED ONLY POSSIBILITY

Activity of French Cardinals in Favor of Mercier Is Declared Useless in Face of Opposition.

FOREIGNERS HOLD BALANCE OF POWER

Prelates in Favor of Continuation of Benedict's Policy Control 25 Votes, "Irreconcilables" 20 of the 51.

By FERDINAND TUOHY, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

ROME, Feb. 3.—As all Rome is moved by the balloting of the Cardinals' conclave that must elect Pope Benedict's successor, the situation may be summed up in the following way:

The family of the late Pope, and especially his nephew, the Marchese Della Chiesa, have remarked on the enormous activity among French Cardinals during the last two days in favor of the election of Cardinal Mercier.

The Italian Cardinals, who have the means of carrying over to their side many foreigners who would bitterly oppose Cardinal Mercier's election, namely, the Germans, Austrians, Spaniards and possibly the Poles and Czechoslovaks, refuse to entertain the idea of a foreign Pope.

From all quarters comes the conviction that the Sacred College will choose a young Pope. As far as it is possible to judge, with all the Cardinals vowed to secrecy, it appears that the so-called Benedict party, or those desirous of carrying on the late Pontiff's policy, can count on about 25 votes. But 25 are needed for election. Cardinal Merry Del Val's party of irreconcilables count about 20 votes, leaving seven votes uncertain, but they consist of the votes of the foreign Cardinals.

Each morning before giving absolution, the grand confessor of conclave, Father Agostino Ruelli, under chaplain of the Apostolic Palaces, reminds each Cardinal that his duty is to allow his voting to be guided solely by the dictates of the holy spirit and a desire to serve the supreme interests of the church.

Made in Pauline Chapel. The correspondent attended a mass in the Pauline Chapel of the Vatican, which is so rare that it is said only in order to invoke a blessing on the Cardinals of the Sacred College prior to entering a conclave to elect a new Pope. Just half the Cardinals present had never before witnessed such a celebration, and their anxiety lest they make a mistake in the many usual turns in the service was plainly written on several faces. It is exceedingly difficult to gain entrance to the chapel, no one but the Cardinals and one squad of the noble guard being admitted.

All through the Vatican cordon after cordon of the Swiss guard, the palatine guard, and gendarmes cleared the way. Finally after half a mile of corridors, one arrived outside the chapel, which was approached through a long avenue, the noble guard standing attention with drawn swords.

It is explained that this is the most solemn ceremony of all and is intended as a check on the notion that the election of a Pope might become mainly a political event. Inside the chapel dean of the sacred college Vanutelli said mass, while all around sat cardinals enthroned, foreigners interspersed with Italians.

Thus, Cardinal Mercier sat between Cardinals Gasparri and Merry Del Val and directly facing Cardinal Pirri of Vienna. It was a genuine international assemblage of nine different tongues. Cardinal Vanutelli "the man who has buried four Popes" towered over the company and made the chapel ring with his voice, despite his 87 years. Throughout the celebration the words "Spiritus Sanctus" were repeated, both in hymns and in prayers, while the Cardinals bowed, knelt, and embraced one another and were blessed by the canons. All were dressed alike in scarlet robes, ermine capes, red skullcaps and with similar big stone rings on the third finger of the right hand.

Mundane Affairs Forgotten. As one scanned their ever moving lips it seemed that, at least for the moment, mundane affairs were forgotten and that such things as the Quirinal, Franco-Vatican relations, and candidatures were far from their minds. As the mass concluded a priest mounted the pulpit and read from a parchment in Latin. The blessing of the Holy Ghost was called down upon their labors at the conclave. Each Cardinal was given a copy of the parchment and the proposition for exit formed.

First came a squad of Swiss marching in a slow step, then the Cardinals in twos, each attended by two guards, a canon and a footman in evening dress. As each couple of the princes of the church passed, the noble guard in column formation on each side came to "attention," the Cardinals answering the salute with a nod. It was a brilliant pageant of color as the procession slowly wove its way through the corridors. Speedily, however, the Cardinals were recalled to actuality. Many were handed letters, probably pressing this or that candidate, while, giving a touch of the twentieth century to their immemorial labors, an airship circled overhead.

CHILDREN ARE THE GREATEST SUFFERERS IN THIS INSTANCE

Science Comes To The Rescue With The New Fruity Laxative—Analax

Thousands of people all over the country are injuring their health and developing very serious conditions, by using powerful laxatives and purgatives.

The harm done by these harsh, drastic drugs is testified to by doctors everywhere. Your own doctor can tell you that the action of many of the commonly used purgative drugs and compounds is produced by irritation of the intestines.

This is one reason why these drugs cause a weakening of the bowels. Also why the system fails to respond to their action, so that you have to take larger and larger doses. And even then the results are often unsatisfactory.

However, Science again has come to solve this problem for millions of people with Analax—the Fruity Laxative—because Analax is absolutely free from all irritating effects, and is composed only of the purest ingredients, so combined as to give a gentle, tonic movement—without the slightest effect of griping. Analax is the perfect laxative for women and children. And has the delicate, delicious taste of fresh, ripe raspberries.

Golf Privileges At Public Course Given to Duwe

Municipal "Pro" Offered City $9000 for Five-Year Forest Park Contract.

ONE OPPONENT IN FIELD

Assistant Puts in Late Bid of $1510, Forcing Duwe to Raise His Offer.

E. H. Duwe, golf professional at the municipal course in Forest Park for the last three years, will continue in that capacity for five years. The Board of Public Service accepted his bid for the privileges, at its meeting today. In the first batch of bids, John Manion, brother of State Champion Jimmy Manion and assistant golf professional at Sunset Hill, offered $2800 a year for five years and this was $1100 a year more than any other bid, it was accepted.

However, after John thought it over and learned that Duwe planned to open a golf shop and school on the Baltimore avenue, he decided that he had overestimated the possible revenue from the privileges and withdrew, forfeiting his $50 deposit. The bidding then was resumed.

Only two bids were received on the second letting. The offers were to be deposits at the office of the Board of Public Service between 10 a. m. and noon on the day appointed. Duwe had prepared his bid, fixing it at $1500. When Duwe arrived to deposit his bid, he found the box empty and did a little thinking. If nobody else made an offer, it would not be necessary to offer $1500 a year, as in that case the board would either accept his bid, the only one, or reopen the bidding. So Duwe waited, planning to deposit an altered bid, if no other was made.

Duwe raised his bid. The time had almost elapsed when an assistant of Duwe's, W. T. Pendleton, deposited an envelope in the box. Duwe again did some thinking. This time he decided to raise his offer in a hurry. He made his bid for $1500 a year, $2000 for five years and dropped it in the box a few minutes before the "dead line." He afterward learned that Pendleton had bid $1510.

It will be necessary for Duwe to put up bond to insure the payment of the entire $9000 rental, whereupon he will be permitted to resume operations in the park discontinued on Jan. 1 when his old contract with the city expired.

His privileges include the sale of new and second-hand golf sticks and other supplies, "ditch-boy" privileges and the right to give instructions. In the past the ditch rights have been subtle. One of the first things Duwe will do will be to try to enlarge the back facilities at the Lindell pavilion. Last year there were accommodations for only a small percentage of the golfers who wanted to store their clubs. Duwe will try to have the women's locker space curtailed—the present assigned place is more than is being used—and extend the caddy bag racks into the space now used for lockers.

This would be a popular change with the municipal officers, especially those who run out to the park from their downtown offices and who, if the change were made, would not have to go to their home first, to get their clubs.

WEBSTER AND KIRKWOOD PLAY IN FEATURE GAME
The Webster and Kirkwood basketball quintets will meet tonight in the Webster Army for first place in the county league. The two teams have been in a back-and-forth season opened and tonight's game is expected to be hard fought.

Webster will have a heavier team than Kirkwood, and in addition has great reserve strength. Webster has won all its games with ease and in each battle Coach Roberts has given his next year's athletes a hard workout. Three of Kirkwood's victories were won by scant margins and twice the Blue and White five was forced to play extra periods.

Leslie Payne, who suffered an injured shoulder in the Webster-Kirkwood game, will be in tonight's game. Tonight's schedule: Kirkwood at Webster; University City at Clayton; Ferguson at Maplewood; Wellston at Ritenour.

MRS. MALLORY ENTERS INDOOR TENNIS FINAL
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Mollie Hurst Mallory, national women's tennis champion, yesterday won her way into the finals of the invitation indoor tournament at Heights Casino, Brooklyn, by defeating Miss Barbara Bayard of Short Hills, N. J. The score was 6-4, 6-4.

Miss Edith Montgomery and Miss Lee Bancroft, both of the Longwood Club, Boston, the other semifinalists, postponed their match until today.

Glad News for Colleges.

GLAD tidings rang out through the Middle West yesterday, when it was announced that the Staley Manufacturing Co. of Decatur, Ill., had decided to abandon professional football and baseball teams for the future. Apparently it was a farewell to the welfare projects, at least so far as professionals were concerned, at this concern, which was one of the pioneers in starting the industrial sport movement.

The Staley company was one of the most energetic bidders for baseball and football talent. It wanted a good team and it got it. Jimmy Conzelmann, one of Washington University's best products, was a Staley star and certainly made a good impression on the fans. The famous baseball pitcher, who was in charge of the company baseball clubs.

But the Staley company is too high for the inferior talent available. Perhaps a desire to be easy on the colleges and remove temptation from college players, who was part of the reason back of the determination of the company to quit exploiting professional teams.

At any rate, with the Staleys dropping out, other big companies are almost certain to follow suit; and each professional team removed from the field makes it that much more certain no repetition of the Taylorville episode will occur.

Perhaps it might solve the college problem if all the industrial teams would get down to a different basis of employing athletic talent. The various shipyard and steel companies have plenty of money to buy teams, but no time to devote to them. As a result, they only employ a few players, who are not worth the trouble of maintaining. If a "welfare" project, it seems more likely to fare ill.

Time to alter a system that is headed wrong. Instead of being a "welfare" project, it seems more likely to fare ill. At present time, the leading college football coaches are paid more than double the average college professor. There are instances in major universities where enough money is spent on a football team annually to maintain a dozen "chairs" of science and grammar. The coaches should be worthy of the laborer's lot.

The justice of this is frequently questioned. Granted that physical development should be encouraged, an even break in time and expenditure.

Fighting Soccer Players Punished
Indefinite and Seven-Day Suspensions Follow Battles After Football Game.

Two players, Emanuel Reis and Kowalak, members of the Mahon team of the Forest Park division, were suspended by the Municipal Soccer League Executive Committee as a result of the parts they played in the trouble which followed the St. Mark-Mahon contest last Sunday. It also was announced that better police protection would be afforded hereafter.

Reis was punished severely, being suspended indefinitely, while Kowalak escaped with a set down of only a week. From the punishment meted out by the officials, it is probable that Reis was the athlete known as "Bottles," who was nagged on throughout the game by spectators to "get some one."

Athletes of the St. Mark's team, who bore marks of the fight, were excoriated.

It was reported that the game would be replayed, but it was stated yesterday by Miss Brennan, secretary of the Municipal League, that the contest probably would stand as played—a victory for the St. Marks, leaders in the division.

Miss Brennan also was authority for the statement that full police protection would be on hand hereafter. She also said that the same referee—J. Craddock—would be sent to Forest Park again. Craddock was hit from behind during the squabble last Sunday.

Two other Municipal players, Narel of De Andreis and Hirst of Laclede, were suspended two weeks for fighting.

BROWNS' BATTERY MEN SCHEDULED TO DEPART FOR SOUTH ON FEB. 21
Bob Quinn, business manager of the Browns, announced yesterday that the advance guard of the team, including the pitchers and catchers, would depart for Mobile, Ala., Feb. 21, with the first workout scheduled for Feb. 23. The infielders and outfielders are scheduled to start practice a week later.

Copyright, 1932.
If white hopes were still in fashion, Ralph Smith, Los Angeles Athletic Club amateur boxer, would easily qualify. Smith is 6 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 217 pounds. He was "discovered" four months ago by George Blake, boxing instructor at Camp Fremont, during the war. Smith is the heaviest fighter to be seen in a ring. Fully developed he'll weigh 240.

Blake took Smith into the club gymnasium and began teaching him the art of boxing. At first Smith was ponderous and slow, but he improved rapidly. One day Blake brought in a hard-hitting professional and told him to cut loose with Smith and see if the big fellow could take it. The pro landed a terrific swinging punch on Smith's jaw.

"Did that hurt you?" asked Blake. "Why, no," said Smith. "I felt it, but I can't say it hurt me." "All right," said Blake, "you'll do. I just want to see if you were game."

Has Won Four Fights.

Since then Smith has fought four times and has won all four fights with knockouts, two in three rounds each and two in the second round. His latest victim was a sailor from the battleship fleet in the harbor, nearly as tall as himself and of about the same weight. A husky who tore at Smith and looked as dangerous as a bear until Smith uncoiled a short right-hand punch in the second round.

The blow struck the side of the sailor's head, lifted him clear off the floor and dropped him so cold that he fell flat on his face and didn't move until his seconds rolled him over on his back for the count. Even then he was out for about five minutes.

Ralph Smith will be sent to the national championships, where he should have no trouble winning the amateur title. After that he may go out for professional honors. Smith is a bigger and better-built man than Fred Goetz, who seems to have what Fulton lacks, a fighter's heart.

It wouldn't be at all surprising to see him a dangerous contender for the heavyweight title within two years. He is a hard worker, says the giant shows up for the usual daily coaching and training on the next morning after each bout, and trains every day.

Jenkinson, his clubmate, who won the national welter title at Boston last year, may not go East to the championships, as he has broken his thumb twice in recent amateur bouts.

He's a Collector.

Having signed a contract to manage the Giants for another five years, John McGraw ought to be in the multimillionaire class before he retires to spend the rest of his life playing golf.

Jawn started as a ball player on the old Baltimore Orioles, and with each shift has become more prosperous. Today, John is a large owner in the Giants, has racing interests in Cuba where he has for some years been part owner of the track just behind the stadium, and could be classed as a magnate on his New York real estate holdings alone.

Everyone Can't Do It.

Harry Stone, formerly of New York, has been living in Australia so long that he is now spoken of as "The Australian boxer."

Stone is still winning fights. Ten or 12 years ago he was a sturdy second rater in New York, but in Australia he was always a champion. The major leagues had paid him for the purchase of players from minor leagues more than $16,000. In many instances, he said, this helped the "wring" fellow finance what otherwise would have been a disastrous season.

Kimball Named Captain.
Principia Academy and the North Side Y. M. C. A. will hold a dual swimming meet at Howard Gymnasium tomorrow afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock. There will be six events, as follows: 40, 100 and 200 yard dashes, 40-yard breast and back strokes, plunge for distance, diving contest and relay race. Weston Kimball of Principia, who has been elected captain of the academy swimming team, the first in the history of the institution.

Cleveland Plays Principia.
Cleveland High and Principia Academy basketball teams will meet in a game on the Cleveland floor this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Today's contest will be the second between the two quintets. In the first game Coach Fenwick's protégés won. Charlie Reber will referee.

The Piker basketball team, after a rest of two weeks, will meet Oklahoma tonight and tomorrow night will battle the Kansas Aggies. Both games are scheduled for 8:30 o'clock at Francis Gymnasium.

The Piker outfit has been greatly strengthened since the hard-fought Grinnell game and a victory in one or both of the contests would not come entirely as a surprise.

Oklahoma has a strong team and ranks third in the Valley competition. Waite, the Sooners' center, is regarded as one of the best in the Conference and is the team's leading point scorer.

The Kansas Aggies have already defeated the Pikers in an early game. Both teams were pretty evenly matched and in addition to playing the same at home, the Kansas had exceptional good fortune in landing baskets thrown from the middle of the floor.

MANGLAM AND WALKER LEAD IN FIRST ROUND OF TEXAS OPEN WITH 70

By the Associated Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 3.—Clarence Mangham, professional of the Brackenridge Park municipal course here, scored 70 in the first round of the Texas open golf championship which started over the municipal links today. Mangham had 27 and 43 in his two rounds. Pete O'Hara of New York and Bob McDonald of Chicago were next with 72 each. There were 48 starters, but several were dropped out after the first round because of the extremely fast play.

MOHARDT, NOTRE DAME STAR, ADMITS PLAYING WITH LEGION ELEVEN

By the Associated Press.
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 3.—Johnny Mohardt, star halfback of the Notre Dame football team, admitted today to a faculty member that he played in a football game with the Racine (American Legion) team in Milwaukee after the close of the football season last November. Announcement of the game was made by the Rev. William A. Carey, chairman of the university's athletic committee.

APPLEBY BROTHERS WIN 18.2 TOURNAMENT MATCHES

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Francis Appleby of New York won the tenth game of the National Class A 18.2 billiards championship tournament, under the auspices of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players, at the Crescent Athletic Club in Brooklyn, yesterday, defeating Ed. Gardner, Montclair, N. J., 20 to 18. The winners' averages were 23.48 and his best runs, 62, 58 and 24. Gardner's high runs were 30 and 20.

Wide open billiards, with little real ballgame marked the match. Appleby's best runs displayed some close cueing. In the cluster of 52 he had the ivory so closely bunched that he retired because he failed to get them out of ball.

Edward F. Appleby of the New York Athletic Club defeated Emil A. Renner of Houghton, O., 200 points to 274.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Walter Miller of Los Angeles, claimant to the title of nationally reigning champion, defeated Paul Prehn, wrestling instructor at the University of Illinois, two falls out of three, at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Kaiser Refuses To Meet Walker Without Permit

Manager Joe Levy Declines to Proceed With Lafayette Club "Outlaw" Match.

John "Peewee" Kaiser of St. Louis and Al Walker, the San Francisco bantam, will not appear in their scheduled 12-round contest at the Lafayette Club, Feb. 15. The fact developed yesterday with the arrival from Cincinnati of Joe Levy, who advises Kaiser in his ring affairs. Upon learning that Matchmaker Tommy Sullivan of the Lafayette Club had been unable to obtain a sanction from the Police Board Committee, but was preparing to run an "outlaw" show, Levy at once quashed proceedings by withdrawing Kaiser from the match.

"There is no chance for Kaiser to box Walker or any other boy without the consent of the authorities of this city," Levy announced. Levy has several boxes, all of them well known here, and does not care to sacrifice his standing by opposing the Police Committee.

The announcement was made following a conference with Fred Winsor, manager of Al Walker, who previously had announced that he was willing to go forward with the match if Sullivan and Levy wanted him to.

No Other Club in Field.

Winsor, after the conference, agreed with Levy that it would be best to call off the match, if some other club in good standing here could not be interested in it.

Walker's fine bout with Roy Moore had made a favorable impression on local fans, who were eager to see what sort of showing the local star, Kaiser, would make against him.

The decision of Levy kicks the last props from under the hopes of Brooklyn Tommy Sullivan and his Lafayette Club. Sullivan now appears to be out of the good graces of the local authorities and apparently is "through" as a promoter, after about 15 years' attempt to make good here.

It is the fourth time he has been stopped by the authorities but heretofore he always managed to come back. Recently his trouble arose when he failed to obtain a desired sanction from the Police Board committee, he arranged and ran off the Walker-Moore show without the consent of the board. He was permitted to proceed without interference but the act signed his death warrant as a promoter. When he applied for a date for the Walker-Kaiser contest he met only the glacial eye. A heated argument arose in the committee room between Sullivan and one of the committeemen and report says only the intervention of Judge R. W. Hall prevented Sullivan from assaulting one of the committee members.

The "Forlorn Hope."

George Butch, the local graduate amateur who is to face the fire of Harry Kahakoff's lightning left jab and staggering right cross, is not such a forlorn hope as some persons think, according to his friends, among whom is Walter Heiser, the former referee.

"Butch has some points to recommend him," Heiser said. "He can hit very hard and from almost any angle. It's impossible to guess from what point his punch will come as he is not always orthodox in his movements. He is game, aggressive and can take a good punch himself. I think he will give the Ghetto Ghost more trouble than many persons appear to think."

The match is being discussed in boxing resorts here, with the belief prevailing that Kahakoff will toy with Butch, who lacks professional experience.

IDENTIFICATION CARDS FOR INELIGIBLE COLLEGE STARS, IS CARR'S PLAN

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 3.—A proposal that college and university authorities furnish certificates to players who are no longer eligible for intercollegiate competition and that professional football teams engage no college players without such certificates, was made here today by Joe P. Carr, president of the National Football League.

ILLINOIS ATHLETIC CLUB SWIMMERS ESTABLISH FOUR WORLD'S RECORDS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Four world's records were broken by members of the Illinois Athletic Club swimming team in the open meet held in the I. A. C. pool here last night.

Miss Edna O'Connell broke the world's mark for women in the 100-yard breast stroke, making the distance in 1m. 23.2-sec., four-fifths of a second better than the old mark, held by Miss Ruth Smith of Columbus (Ohio) Athletic Club.

Johnny Weismueller broke world's records in the 50 and 220 yard swims, and was on the relay team that hung up the fourth new mark for the night.

In the 50-yard swim his time was 23.2-sec., one-fifth of a second lower than the record he made by Kenneth Hunsing of the Chicago Athletic Association, and Perry McGilvray. He beat his own world's mark in the 220-yard swim, making the distance in 2m. 21.1-sec., one and one-fifth seconds lower than his former record.

The I. A. C. relay team, composed of Weismueller, Abe Ziegler, Perry McGilvray and Buddy Wallen, made the 160 yards in 1m. 16s., four-fifths of a second lower than its own world's record.

The I. A. C. team won the meet, scoring 48 points, against 7 points each for the Milwaukee Athletic Club and the Great Lakes Athletic Association teams.

PIKEWAY TRACK STARS HOLD FIRST PRACTICE

Regular track practice began yesterday at Washington University when a squad of runners reported to Francis Gymnasium for their first formal workout of the year. The squad will meet daily at 3:30 o'clock.

May 13—Grinnell at Grinnell. May 17—Missouri Valley Freshman Telegraphic. May 20—Mississippi Valley Interscholastic. May 26—Missouri Valley Outdoor.

Belgian Champion And Cochran Are Different Types

Horemans Excels at Nursing, While American Is Great Open Shot Maker.

No greater contrast in method has ever been presented in sport than that between Welker Cochran and Edouard Horemans, who will play in a 1600 point exhibition match of 18.2 ballline billiards at Peterson's Monday and Tuesday. Cochran plays remarkable open billiards against the Belgian's nursing tactics.

Men particularly strong in certain respects but appreciably lacking in others have come to the fore at times in almost every sport, but as a general proposition, it is the well-balanced man that reaches the top.

Today the best balanced of all the ballline stars is Jake Schaefer, conqueror of Willie Hoppe. According to Sheep Barclay, manager of Horemans and Cochran, young Jake is "the only player without a single weakness."

"Schaefer does everything well," said Barclay. "He is a star at nursing, at open play, at the masse, at safety, has a good temperament and knows how to take advantage of the breaks. He is not lacking on a solitary point necessary to success in billiards."

Cochran and Horemans Differ.

Cochran and Horemans are classed by billiard followers as being on opposite sides of the balance represented by Schaefer. The Iowa star is the extreme of a wonderful open player, but has been considered poor at the nurse. The Belgian, on the contrary, is woefully weak in general open play and the making of hard shots, but is far and away the most brilliant close nurse that the game has seen, as well as being a marvel with the masse.

What Cochran and Horemans think of each other's style of play is what would be expected. Last spring, Horemans was amazed by the way Cochran would "keep the balls moving about" and yet make big runs. Horemans is quoted as saying: "I don't understand how Cochran he make so many points; sometimes 200, 300, but he not run 200, 300—just a lot of shots, that is all."

He was mystified when the young American made his world's record run of 384 in the recent world's championship tournament in Chicago.

Cochran, in like vein, considers the Belgian's style unsound. "That delicate work is all right for practicing, but I can't see it for competitive purposes," he says. "To nurse that way a man's nerves must be quiet. He must control the quarters and eighth of an inch or his nurse is gone and he has to drive or play hard shots. A man can't control those fractions if he is the slightest bit shaky, and everybody is a bit shaky in tough competition."

Expects Hoppe to Slip.

"The fact that they are so different is why I thought it good to bring them together so much," said Barclay. "I expected that Horemans would pick up a bit of Cochran's wonderful open play and that Cochran would learn the Belgian's nurse. Some of this expected improvement has occurred."

"It would be hard to improve Schaefer because you wouldn't know where to start. With these two it is different. Each finds the other the best instructor in the world to help turn his weakness into strength, and I really see a bigger future improvement for both of these men than for Schaefer. As for Horemans, he has reached his limit, I think. I expect that in about two years more they will have left him behind, and that Schaefer, Horemans, Cochran and young Roger Conti will be the Big Four then."

TWO MEETS ARRANGED FOR PIKEWAY SWIMMERS; HORN MEMBER OF TEAM

Two swimming meets have been arranged for the newly formed Pike squad which has been practicing regularly at the Soudard Pool pending the opening of their new pool. The Pike will meet Western Military Academy on March 23 and a team from the University of Illinois in April. A number of other contests are also being arranged.

Of the men who have reported as candidates for the swimming team, Ollie Horn, Bob Mudd, Adolph Paezel, Russ Dietrich and Johnny Annin have shown class in the sprints. The best exponent of the breast stroke are Mare and Kay, while Josh Dugdale is out for the half mile. Henry Ulrich is the fancy diver of the crew and Herb Oann will do the plunging.

Special invitations are being sent out for the formal opening of Washington University's new swimming pool, which has been definitely set for March 1. Speeches of presentation and acceptance and a water carnival will comprise the evening's program.

The pool is the gift of Mrs. Newton Wilson, and was constructed at a cost of about $75,000. The building housing the pool is situated directly north of Francis Gymnasium, to which it is connected.

McNair Wins Shoot.

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 3.—Garry South handicap shoot was concluded yesterday with Frank McNair of Houston winning the trophy by breaking 33 out of a possible 100 targets, shooting from 33 yards. McNair's shooting was the feature of the day. He turned in a total score of 197 for 200 targets. This, shooting from 23 yards, is said to be a record by those who attended the shoot.

STOKES SAYS WIFE SCRATCHED HIS FACE

He Declares She Also Threatened Him With Carving Knife and That Cook Saved Him.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The reluctant admission that he had charged his son "Weddie," whom he had just feelingly referred to as "The apple of my eye," with repeated acts of misconduct with his young wife, beginning in 1911, when his son was only 14 or 15, was wrung from William E. D. Stokes yesterday by Samuel Untermyer, his wife's attorney. This, together with the witness' account of an alleged attack upon him by his wife in November, 1916, in which he said she had "torn his face to shreds" and threatened him with a carving knife and is confident that he "could get a personal retraction" from Mrs. Philip Lydie, if it was intimated that she had charged he beat her with a stick, provided the chief dramatic highlights in Stokes' testimony.

Of less dramatic value but of greater importance to Mrs. Stokes, who is suing to enforce her dower rights in her husband's estate, was his admission that their two signatures to a deed transferring 49 pieces of real estate "seem to have been signed with different ink."

The deed in question was signed by Mr. and Mrs. Stokes, May 17, 1911, and attested by Albert H. Gleason, Stokes' personal attorney. In addition to transferring all of Stokes' New York realty holdings to the Morvyn Realty Corporation, which he had organized, the deed contained a release of Mrs. Stokes' dower rights in the properties transferred.

Mrs. Stokes testified she signed this document and subsequent deeds under duress and in complete ignorance of their contents.

Stokes and Gleason both insisted Mrs. Stokes and her husband had signed the deed at the same time in the reception room of their apartment in the Ansonia Hotel and in the presence of Gleason.

Purporting to admit the two signatures were not in the same ink, Stokes said he "discovered the ink well was dried up and sent for a bottle of ink. When it arrived, he said, he had poured some of the ink into the bottle."

Wife Scratched Him, He Says.

He said his wife demanded $25,000 a year and the house on Park avenue. When he refused, he said, she flew into a rage, "and tore my face to pieces with her nails, so that I had to remain in the house for several weeks and be treated by a doctor. I have a scar here and one there on my face where she scratched me. I did not touch her except to push her back from me. I tried to escape through the kitchen. She grabbed a carving knife and threatened to kill me. The cook came running out and saved me."

The same day, he testified, he sent her a letter by private messenger offering forgiveness, but stating that "no mother of two children is justified in treating the father of those two children as you treated me today."

Her reply was that the $25,000 a year was the least part of their differences. The real issue, she wrote, was that a hotel was no place in which to bring up children. Jimmie, her boy, she said, needed a place where he could run and play "and have a sand pile."

He denied ever holding his wife in bed by the throat for an hour or threatening to bring a negro into her room.

THOUSAND CATTLE ARE KILLED IN ENGLAND TO CHECK DISEASE

Foot and Mouth Epidemic Spreads to Proliferated Herds; Hunting Ordered Stopped.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—More than a thousand cattle have been slaughtered since the outbreak of foot and mouth disease in England, it was announced yesterday. The disease has attacked some of the best herds of dairy cattle and many pedigreed flocks of sheep. Yorkshire having suffered badly. Fox hunting throughout the north of England has been stopped because of the danger of the hounds being infected.

MAGISTRATE GIVES UP JOB IN CRIMELESS TOWN

Ocracoke, N. C. However, Once Was Notorious as Headquarters for Daring Gang of Crooks.

By the Associated Press. Ocracoke, N. C., Feb. 2.—Although this little town about a century and a half ago was the rendezvous of one of the world's most daring and notorious gangs of crooks—Edward Teach (Blackbeard) and his band—it is today one community which the recent crime wave has not reached. There has not been an arrest here in more than 10 years and the crimes of robbery, burglary, theft and murder, practically are unknown to the population, in so far as they refer to Ocracoke. John O'Neal, after holding office as Justice of the Peace at Ocracoke for eight years, resigned a year or more ago, not having had a criminal case during his administration. A successor has never been elected. O'Neal, who was born at Ocracoke, says the worst crime he can recall to have occurred at Ocracoke in 50 years was one of assault and battery.

Few Doors With Locks.

There are only one or two homes here that have locks on the doors and the keys to those that are thus equipped are never used. Most of the houses at Ocracoke were wholly or partly constructed from lumber of ships, wrecked on the treacherous shoals off the North Carolina coast. Each family here owns its home.

Ocracoke is at the extreme southern end of a little island by the same name, situated about 30 miles off the mainland of North Carolina, and is unusual in many respects. Ocracoke Island, which is part of Hyde County, N. C., is a little strip of land about 11 miles long, and ranges in width from a half to one and a half miles. The population of the island numbers about 700, about 650 of whom live at Ocracoke. Those who do not live in the little town are members of the families of coast guardians that patrol the coast.

Not Even a Movie.

As there are no railroads, automobiles, street cars or theaters where motion pictures are shown, many of the inhabitants at Ocracoke have never seen any of these things. With the exception of the men employed by the United States Government as coast guardians and the few merchants in the little town, all Ocracokes make their living hunting and fishing.

Every person on Ocracoke Island is a Methodist in religion. They are divided, however, as to the sectional branch to which they belong, about half being members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, while the others attend the Northern church. Ocracoke is one of the oldest settlements in America. The people are believed by many historians to be descendants of the "Lost Colony" of Sir Walter Raleigh.

"HAS ANYONE SEEN MY DOG, 'JIGGS'?" BOY IN HOSPITAL ASKS

White Spitz Is Needed to Keep His "Pal" Company While Mother Is Away.

Anyone who finds a little white Spitz dog answering to the name of "Jiggs" and returns him to 3565 Caroline street will receive a "Thank you," such as he never has received before, from Tommy Douglas, 13 years old, who can't hunt for "Jiggs" because the doctors at Barnes Hospital say he has a tubercular hip and must stay in bed.

Tommy was taken to the hospital from his home in Des Moines, Ia., six weeks ago by his mother, Mrs. F. G. Douglas. "Jiggs" came to keep Tommy cheerful. Three weeks ago "Jiggs" strayed from 3400 North Euclid avenue, where Tommy's mother was staying.

As Tommy's mother has to leave St. Louis she is afraid Tommy is going to be very lonesome without "Jiggs" while she is gone. So if you see "Jiggs" anywhere be sure to take him to the Caroline street address where Tommy is staying with his aunt, Mrs. Vida Johnson.

To Help Put on Good Firm Flesh and Round Out Your Face and Figure

Genuine Yeast Vitamins Tablets Often Produce Most Surprising Results. Get a FREE $1.00 Package Today as Explained Below—Try Them for Ten Days and Watch the Results

Science has at last shown how we can grow strong, thin, and emaciated on an abundance of food (lacking in vitamins) while with a much smaller amount of food, rich in vitamins, we may quickly take on good firm flesh, increase in weight, and make a remarkable gain in strength, energy and endurance, provided your blood contains sufficient quantity of oxygenated organic iron to enable your body to assimilate your food properly.

Without organic iron both food and vitamins are absolutely useless as your body cannot change lifeless inert food

For centuries scientists tried in vain to make organic iron. At last the problem was solved so that you may now obtain pure organic iron like the iron in your blood from any drugstore under the name of "Nuxated Iron."

It has been arranged to give every purchaser of Nuxated Iron, who wishes something to help put on flesh or increase weight, a large regular $1.00 package of Genuine Yeast Vitamins Tablets absolutely free. Be sure to take only Nuxated Brand Yeast Vitamins Tablets with Nuxated Iron. Do not be misled by imitations which contain drugs.

WITH THE LID OFF, MOSCOW HAS BECOME A WIDE-OPEN TOWN

It Is Open for Everything; Wine and Vodka Are Sold Even in Millinery Shops.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Jan. 10.—This city has become a wide-open town for the first time in its modern history. It is open for business, for thefts, for holdups, for fun, for disease and disaster, for speculation, for drinking, for any and all things man or woman may desire.

The old-timers of the staid pre-war regime can't recognize anything but the snow. It used to be, before the war, a sort of country, family town, as compared to the gayer sky-larking of St. Petersburg.

During the revolutions it lost this friendly aspect of quiet and, as the soviet settled down here, it became strictly moral and severe, with only the grand opera to lighten the load of propaganda and thousands of orders on how to live and prosper and be happy, notwithstanding closed shops, lack of bread and medicine and clothes.

A Russian Rip Van Winkle, who had slept during the past three years, wouldn't know the town these nights. Church bells ring out for prayers. Communists and bourgeois, peasants and princesses are all scrambling for more money that they may not fall into the abyss of famine. Cabmen are fighting for higher rates, grain dealers for more rubles per bushel, bakers for more per pound, candy and cookery shops are blooming out on every corner, wine and vodka are sold in millinery shops and the 50 policemen of the town have long since quit bothering with foot-pads.

The lid is off.

SAMPLE OF HILARIOUS FUN THEY HAVE IN STATE DEPARTMENT

A Diplomatic Misunderstanding, a C. O. D. Cable and a Messenger Boy Ingredients of a Joke.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—A high official of the State Department, who has made no effort to conceal his deep personal interest in the proposed conference between Chile and Peru regarding differences growing out of the Ancón treaty, was the butt of much friendly badgering from his associates yesterday.

When a press dispatch from Santiago Tuesday gave the names of Chile's delegates to the conference, the State Department official grasped the opportunity to add what impetus he could to the preliminary negotiations. He dispatched a cablegram—tolls collect—to the Peruvian Government, inquiring whether it would not announce its selections. Yesterday the reply came, also "collect," and was delivered by a messenger, to whom officialdom carried little of veneration in the way of "C. O. D." instructions.

After payment had been exacted, the message was found to read: "Senorita Maggie Conroy Peru's delegate."

Inquiry developed that Miss Conroy was to represent Peru at the Pan-American conference of women at Baltimore in April.

KANSAS UTILITIES MAN URGES THAT PASSENGER RATES BE CUT

Tells Interstate Commerce Commission Roads Will Continue to Suffer Under Present Methods.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Passenger fares charged by the railroads at present are economically too high to be sustained, Clyde M. Reed, chairman of the Kansas Utilities Commission, testified today in the Interstate Commerce Commission investigation of transportation charges.

Answering questions by the commission, Reed said the railroads should fix their general passenger rates at three cents a mile instead of 3.5 cents, abolishing the Pullman fare surcharge but leaving Pullman transportation at 2.5 cents a mile.

Passenger travel on a per car mile basis had decreased 50 per cent under the new rates and the increases given in 1920, he said. Forces of traveling salesmen had been reduced, automobile competition had been enhanced and tourist travel restricted in every way as a result of the increased rates, he said, with the process still going on.

Railroads, however, were unable to reduce their expenses proportionately because there they were obliged to maintain trains on the same basis as before, and he argued that the only way out of the situation was to stimulate passenger travel by decreasing rates.

MRS. BERGDOLL IN COURT AGAIN

Grover's Mother Fined $10 on Cruelty to Animals Charge.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2.—Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, mother of Grover C. and Edwin Bergdoll, army deserters, yesterday was again in the toils of the law, this time on a charge of cruelty to animals. She and Matthew Grophenbacher, caretaker of Edwin's estate at Linerich, near here, were each fined $10 and costs for not having proper bedding for horses and cattle. The charge was brought by the Society to Prevent Cruelty to Animals.

Magistrate Roy Blackburn said Mrs. Bergdoll blamed conditions in the barn on the caretaker and the latter passed the blame back to Mrs. Bergdoll.

$50,000 CLAIM FOR LAWYERS' FEES BY BANK

Commerce Institution Submits Bill in Connection With Suit for $300,000.

A claim for $50,000 for lawyers' fees has been entered by the National Bank of Commerce in connection with its suit for $300,000 against the Maryland Casualty Co., which was taken under advisement by Judge Hamilton.

The attorneys for the bank, who have represented it in this suit, the Federal and state courts, are George L. Edwards and Edw. White, both members of the bar and of the board of directors.

Testimony was presented yesterday as to the value of such services as those rendered by Edwards and White. On cross-examination, it was brought out that Edwards receives a retainer of $1,000 a year from the bank for legal services as its counsel. Edwards said he was not prohibited from earning additional fees, and that he sometimes receives extra compensation from the bank. He said he received a fee of $15,000 in the original suit against H. Clay Pierce, oil magnate, out of which the present suit grew.

Testimony as to Work.

Edwards testified that he gave great deal of time in the last few years to this particular litigation, and that he worked in court, in preparation of petitions, in examining witnesses and in the study of the legal matters involved in the law library.

"Did you carry the files with you to the golf links?" Edwards was asked by Robert A. Holland, attorney for the casualty company. Edwards said he did not.

Walter H. Saunders, a lawyer, testified that he estimated the value of the services of Edwards and White in the case as $10,000 for the proceedings in Federal Court and $2,000 for the case in the State court. He said, in reply to questions, that a lawyer's time should not be figured by the day, as one might pay a mechanic.

History of the Suit.

The bank's suit against the casualty company is for $100,000, claim as the balance of a $700,000 judgment which the bank obtained in 1916 against Pierce in litigation growing out of the financing of the Tennessee Central Railroad. The casualty company signed an appeal bond furnished by Pierce, when it requested the judgment on the ground that large counterclaims should be allowed to him. Certain counterclaims presented by the casualty company are in controversy in the present suit.

SECOND SUIT HERE AGAINST WIFE OF NEW YORK BANKER

Hot Springs Man Seeks $15,000 Damages From Mrs. Elaine Lee Harris, Alleging Slander.

A second suit was filed yesterday by H. C. Shaw Jr. of Hot Springs, Ark., against Mrs. Elaine Lee Harris, wife of Beverly D. Harris, vice president of the National City Bank of New York. In the new suit Shaw alleges that Mrs. Harris slandered him by stating that she did not believe he had ever placed money at a wager for her on the Dempsey-Carpenter prize fight, and he sues for $15,000 damages.

Mrs. Harris is alleged to have made the statement in explanation of an attachment suit Shaw filed against her last week for $2100, alleging it was the balance due to her. Harris is staying at Hotel Statler, where she was served with notice of the damage suit.

As in the first suit, Shaw obtained a writ of attachment against Mrs. Harris' personal property at the New York and Arthur H. Hild of Utica, N. Y. The last two already have been brought to this country on stamps of the United States and the colonies, which auctioned at Paris for $250,000.

When Baron Ferrar died in Switzerland during the war, his collection of the entire American section of the collection are expected to produce $300,000 to apply on the war debt.

It occupies an entire building in Paris and will be auctioned in sections. Sections of the collection are expected to produce $300,000 to apply on the war debt.

NEW MADRID, Mo., Feb. 2.—The jury in the murder trial of Sheriff Jimmerson, charged with the fatal shooting of Dr. H. L. ("Bull") Brannon, Aug. 14 last, was dismissed today when it reported inability to agree. It had been out for 24 hours.

Dr. Brannon was a former football star of St. Louis University.

Jimmerson testifying yesterday declared he fired in self-defense.

Dr. Brannon was shot four times while in a barber shop at Hayti and died later in a hospital at Memphis. Shortly before his death Brannon declared Jimmerson attempted to blackmail him for $500.

Jimmerson, on the stand, denied this and asserted Brannon reached for a revolver when he entered the barber shop.

Mrs. Jimmerson and her daughter testified Dr. Brannon had told them he would kill Jimmerson if they told Jimmerson of his (Brannon's) alleged relations with Mrs. Jimmerson.

BOY HELD AFTER WOUNDING OF PLAYMATE WITH PISTOL

Both Tell Police Weapon Exploded When They Were Shooting at Target.

Stanley Lubaszewski Jr., 14 years old, of 1423 North Sixth street, is held at the House of Detention pending the outcome of injuries to his playmate, John Novak, 14, of 1443 North Eleventh street, who was wounded in the neck yesterday afternoon when he was shot with a pistol while the two boys were shooting at a target at the end of Mullany street exploded. The Novak boy is at the city hospital.

The boys are pupils at the St. Casimir's school, 1601 North Eighth street. Lubaszewski told the police that he and Novak went down to the river front to practice shooting. He said he shot at a target several times and that Novak then took the pistol, which is of .22 caliber, and at the first attempt to fire it exploded, wounding him in the neck. Lubaszewski said he became excited and threw the pistol into the river. The Novak boy told the police the same story. Two other boys went to the river front with Novak and Lubaszewski, but left the scene before the accident.

FRENCH SELL STAMP COLLECTION TO GET WAR DEBT MONEY

Stamps Owned by Baron Ferrar and Seized During War Worth $5,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—A new means of collecting a few odd millions of the war debt has been hit upon by French members of the Allied Committee on Reparations.

When collections begin to drag, they merely auctioned a few of the postage stamps collected by the late Baron Ferrar, and straightaway stamp collectors from all over the world flock to Paris.

Such an auction will take place in March when two sections of the famous collection will be offered. Among the bidders will be several Americans, probably including John Klemm and Alfred Caspary of New York and Arthur H. Hild of Utica, N. Y. The last two already have been brought to this country on stamps of the United States and the colonies, which auctioned at Paris for $250,000.

When Baron Ferrar died in Switzerland during the war, his collection of the entire American section of the collection are expected to produce $300,000 to apply on the war debt.

COUPLE MISSING SINCE DAY MAN TOLD OF BRIDGE SUICIDES

Frank Ryan Informs Police That Uncle and Aunt Disappeared Last Wednesday.

Frank Ryan of 423 Trembley avenue, East St. Louis, has asked the East St. Louis police to search for his uncle and aunt, Alonzo and Hattie Phelps, who formerly lived at the rear of 102 Fifth street, and who has been missing since noon Wednesday. A. H. Bresler of 1205 Dolans street, employed on the free bridge, said he saw a man and woman jump from the bridge Wednesday.

Ryan reports that the couple left their home about 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and Bresler stated that the couple jumped from the bridge about 10:30 o'clock in the morning.

Ryan said that, when he went to call upon his aunt and uncle yesterday, he found strangers living in the place, who said they had purchased the household furniture from Mr. Ryan and Mrs. Phelps, who said they were going to Murphysboro, Ill., to visit relatives. Ryan said inquiry among relatives at Murphysboro failed to reveal their whereabouts.

Phelps is described as 48 years old, 5 feet, 6 inches tall, wearing a blue suit, dark hat and weighing about 150 pounds. Mrs. Phelps is said to be 50 years old, and slender.

FOUR MEN FLEE FROM AUTO

Four men, watching a fifth repair a tire on an automobile in front of 2841 Chippewa street last night, fled when four of 1327 Marquette street, their automobile and began to stop. The fifth man said he had been called to repair the tire. The police took possession of the car, a King 8, and are of the opinion that it was a stolen car.

James P. Harrigan of 1626 South Eighth street, called the police to his home last night and asked that they take possession of a motor cycle left under a porch which, he said, did not belong to him. The machine was found to be that of Fred Robinson, of 1515 Mississippi avenue, who said that it had been stolen Wednesday night from a garage at 2002 Rutger street. Two young men, arrested, are said by the police to have admitted taking the motor cycle.

EASTERN PARTY HERE TO VISIT HOSPITAL GROUP

Representatives of New York Presbyterian Institution Get Ideas for New Building.

A party of men who are about to construct a new group of buildings for the Presbyterian General Hospital of New York, came to St. Louis today to inspect the School of Medicine of Washington University, and Barnes and Children's hospitals.

In the group were Edward S. Harkness, railroad financier; William Sloan, New York merchant, who is president of the Hospital Board; Dr. William Darrach, dean of the School of Medicine of Columbia University; Dr. C. C. Huggins, executive secretary of the Hospital Board, and J. Gamble Rogers, architect.

The party previously has visited hospitals in Montreal, Detroit, Chicago, Rochester, Minneapolis, and will close its tour in Cincinnati. Dr. Darrach said that the reason for the St. Louis visit was the reputation of the Barnes Hospital group as a model for liaison of medical school and hospital and construction of hospital buildings.

Several of the men have distinguished war records. Dr. Darrach was one of the first American surgeons to enter the field in 1915 and later became consultant for the Army of Occupation. Dr. Huggins won the cross of the Legion of Honor for Red Cross ambulance service, and Sloan was president of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A.

Harkness is a son of the donor of the Harkness quadrangle at Yale and himself has given large sums of money to that university. He has given 20 acres of ground in New York for the construction of the new Presbyterian Hospital, which is the hospital of the Columbia Medical School.

CHARGES ATTEMPT TO FORCE $14,000,000 LOAN ON HAITI

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Attempts are being made to force upon Haiti a loan of $14,000,000 which that country does not want. Prof. Pierre Hudicourt of Port au Prince declared in an address before the forum of the National Popular Government League.

Prof. Hudicourt, who is a member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague, and of the Haitian commission to the United States, is seeking to arrange execution of its existing treaty with this country and said he would be a witness before the Senate committee investigating conditions in Haiti.

John A. McIlhenny, appointed by President Wilson as financial adviser to help Haiti prepare its national budget, was named by the speaker as among those who have pushed the loan, while "the National City Bank of New York, the Haitian-American Sugar Corporation and R. E. Forrest, president of the West Indies Trading Co." were listed as desiring its consummation.

BISHOP PAUL JONES TO SPEAK

St. Louis members of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, an international organization, have arranged a number of meetings at which Bishop Paul Jones, formerly missionary Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Utah, will speak. Bishop Jones is secretary of the organization. He will preach at 11 a. m. Sunday at Christ Church Cathedral on "Reconciliation in Religion," and at 8 p. m. at the Church of the Ascension, Goodfellow and Cates avenues.

Bishop Jones will address students of Washington University at 10:30 a. m. Monday and the St. Louis Bible Training School, which meets at the Y. W. C. A., 1411 Locust street, in the evening. He will speak at the City Club Tuesday noon, and in the afternoon will address an informal meeting at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Tuttmann, 5922 Westminster place.

FINED FOR NOT PAYING FOR MEAL

Frank McCormack, 34 years old, who said he had come to St. Louis from South Bend, Ind., three months ago, told Judge Homer in Police Court today: "They'll have to put food in steel vaults to keep it away from me."

He was charged with obtaining a meal worth 50 cents in Solar's cafeteria, 419 North Ninth street, yesterday, and declining payment because he had no money. He said that he had obtained other meals in the same way. He was fined $15, but had no money.

Note the length—'tis Paris length, we are told—of the summer creation in the third picture on display in New York. As for the gown proper, it is of tan crepe with heavy imported lace forming the sleeves and cape. The smart three-piece creation for summer wear shown at the right is quite stunning and serviceable.

The Heart of a Girl

A Story of Romance and a Business Career in St. Louis
By Caroline Crawford

BILLY MAKES GOOD.

ON the fifth evening that Peggy was about to make her way home alone on the street car she was surprised to see Billy Bradford waiting at the elevator for her. Her business days had seemed twice as long since they had not been broken by an hour's conversation at the luncheon period with Billy, and the ride home had seemed six times as tiresome without his steady arm.

When Peggy caught sight of Billy's eager face as he scanned the passengers in the elevator and then noted the smile that played about the corners of his mouth when he saw her it seemed as if her heart would stop beating. What was he going to say to her? His face was so bright and full of hope that she knew he was not angry at her. Her returning his friendship ring had been an incident. He was not thinking of that now.

"Hello, Peg," he said as he took her by the arm and led her out into the street. Then he whispered into her ear, "Gosh, it's great to see you again! Have you missed me much?" Peggy nodded her head and was thankful for the evening dusk which kept Billy from seeing the mist which had risen in her eyes.

"Great guns, I hope you don't think I've been staying away all this time because I have been angry or pouting or anything like that," declared Billy as they walked along to the car line. "It must have seemed as if I had been staying away simply because you returned that friendship ring, Peg, but you'll have to do something far more cruel to me than that, old top, Peggy, I've been promoted. I was getting $25 a week and now I'm getting $40!"

"Billy!" "Yes, sir; that's just what has happened to me. The boss sent me to Philadelphia the very next day after you left me in the pastry shop and dumped that ring on my hands. I made a flying trip on the express and got back late that night. The next day he whisked me off to Boston and I had to stay there 24 hours. Then I was invited out to luncheon with him, and the following day he attended a conference with the other employers and I was raised."

"You mean you accomplished so much on those trips that they boosted you along," praised Peggy.

"Put it any way you like, but the fact is I'm getting 40 bucks a week and when a fellow is my age that's pretty good, isn't it?" asked Billy, not so much in a boastful manner as a mere confidential one.

"I'm not surprised," admitted Peggy.

Making Her Look Her Best

By DORIS BOSCHER.

ANY face assumes an ugly, ludicrous appearance when its owner is lost in slumber with the mouth kept gaping wide open. When you consider that one-third of our time is spent in sleep you can readily understand what a beauty destroyer this mouth breathing is. The mouth kept in a position with the muscles all sagging is bound to leave an aping effect upon the face, and if this were all in itself it would be sufficient for you to remedy this bad habit. But its disastrous effect upon the health is of even greater importance than that upon your facial beauty.

The habit is usually acquired in early childhood and just the slightest care on the part of the mother (turning the little sleeper from side to side and seeing to it that the pillow supports the head at such an angle that the open mouth is an impossibility) will often cure the habit before it does any real damage. But in many cases it is not only a habit, but it is a necessity because of some obstruction in the nasal passage or diseased tonsils or adenoids and in that case their removal will prove of great benefit to the general health and also allow the patient to enjoy what is nature's greatest rejuvenator, unbroken hours of sleep.

Another very important thing relative to this open mouth breathing is the fact that it injures the health because it breaks the law of nature, which is that we should breathe through the nose, thus warming the air before it enters the lungs. The nose breathing also permits the removal of impurities that would otherwise enter into the body. No one can awaken in the morning refreshed and ready for the day's tasks who has slept in the manner above described, for there is bound to be a parched condition of the throat and mouth as well as bad taste in the mouth and a general fatigue throughout the entire body. This is due to the fact that the air you have sucked in has dried up the saliva until it has gradually reduced the supply.

Your chances for escape from disease germs is greatly lessened when you breathe through your mouth, and you are also much more liable to take cold.

Remember that when you breathe through the nose you only take in at one breath as much cold air as you are able to warm to the proper temperature.

Maxims of a Modern Maid

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

IT is almost invariably a woman who discovers a man's love for her; he is merely a member of the expedition.

The "yes, dear" type persists, even in business offices. There she turns beaming eyes on the boss after one of his most wrong-headed utterances and chirps, worshipfully, "That's right."

When the girl a man marries asks him to tell her about all the other girls, it is up to him to steer a course between the Scylla of too interesting revelations and the Charybdis of uninteresting innocence.

What the members of a family cannot forgive in any one of them is a sense of detachment. They perpetually offer special pleading in their own behalf and they are unitedly furious at the son, or wife, or sister who judges them in the light of logic rather than through that cloudy emotion known as "family feeling."

Man, rash, blundering creature, often doesn't know how he contrives to offend the girl he wants to please. She doesn't know, either, but she has a reputation for "refinement" to keep up.

Sometimes a cat says "miau, miau!" and sometimes she urges you to bob your hair, "because, dear, it makes everyone look so much YOUNGER!"

The last word in every love affair is "Next?" (Copyright, 1922.)

So you see that mouth breathing is a broken law of Nature and she is the most exacting mistress and always punishes accordingly. (Copyright, 1922.)

Remember that when you breathe through the nose you only take in at one breath as much cold air as you are able to warm to the proper temperature.

POTATO STUFFING

MIX one cup of bread crumbs with two cups of rice potatoes (boiled potatoes that have been mashed or pressed through ricer), one-third cup melted butter or clarified chicken fat, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon paprika and, if desired, one-half teaspoon poultry seasoning. An egg may be added if a rich dressing is needed; a few drops of onion juice may also be added. Serve with fowl, rolled steak, etc.

TROCO

Only in Troco Is the Wanted Flavor Found

USERS of the highest priced spread can change to TROCO and never know the difference. Because TROCO is made by an exclusive process—the process which gives the supremely delicate flavor which other nut spreads lack.

TROCO is made by a company which specializes in this product—a dainty spread made from the juice of the dainty white meat of coconuts which you use shredded on cake. Quality and flavor can't be copied.

Thus you should not ask simply for "nut margarin." You should specify TROCO.

The Perfected Spread

TROCO is not a substitute but a de luxe product offered on its own merits. It is energy food of the highest nutritive value. It is perfectly digestible, easily and thoroughly assimilated.

For cooking it has no equal, either in results or from an economical standpoint. TROCO goes farther than other shortening.

A White Tile Plant

TROCO is made in a new, white tile and concrete plant—the food specialist's ideal. Every process is supervised by an expert, who is a past master in his profession.

Remember, TROCO contains no animal oils. It is made only from pure, appetizing vegetable fats and has the sweetest, most delicate flavor and perfect consistency.

Your Dealer Has Troco or He Can Order It

We can supply every dealer on short notice. A telephone order will bring prompt delivery. Thus you should insist upon TROCO—the nut spread with the true, delicate flavor.

Your dealer will supply you with a capsule of the vegetable coloring used by all butter makers.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

(One of a series of short funny stories by the celebrated American humorist which appear daily in the Post-Dispatch on this page.)

POOR AIM BUT GOOD INTENT.

FRIENDS of Col. Roosevelt used to delight to tell this story of him. They said that after his retirement from the presidency he was making one of his periodical trips through the Southwest, when word came to him in a town in New Mexico that one of his old Rough Riders, a cow hand, was in jail on a serious charge over in Arizona and craved that his beloved former commander would come to see him and, if possible, aid him in his present troubles.

Promptly the Colonel crossed the line. In a small brick coop of a county prison he found the veteran. The latter was locked in a cell, and for an additional precaution the authorities had seen fit to decorate his ankles with quite a lot of ironmongery. It was plain that they desired to take no chances on losing him.

When greetings had been exchanged through the bars, Col. Roosevelt said:

"Jim, I'm certainly sorry to see you in this place, all chained up." "Kernel," stated the captive, "I'm sorry 'bout it myself. And I'm hoping you kin use your influence to git me out pronto. They really ain't got no right to keep me locked up. My bein' here is all due to a mistake, anyway."

"A mistake?" echoed the Colonel. "Why, I understood you were charged with some serious offense—shooting somebody, wasn't it?"

"Well," said the prisoner, with a petulant clanking of the pendant links of his hardware, "it's true that I did shoot a lady in the eye. But it was an accident, Kernel."

"An accident?"

"Yes, sub, a pure accident. I wasn't shootin' at that lady at all. I was shootin' at my wife."

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague

MODERATE CONTENTMENT
I envy not the idle rich
Their houses on the avenue—
The marble palaces in which Their costly pleasures they pursue.
I know the way they often spend Their time—and think but little Of it;
No golden leisure at Ostend
I covet.

Rare jewels don't appeal to me.
I know I should not care to own
A diamond which was said to be The world's most fine and costly stone.
If wealth I had its boundless store,
I'm sure I'd never be so reckless As to acquire a pendant or A necklace.

Their private cars I envy not;
I've not the slightest wish to roam
The ocean on a snow white yacht;
It's pleasant to stay at home.
I do not crave each day to dine
On terrapin—I think it's wasteful;
I find the most expensive wine Distasteful.
